SENATE'S HEARING ON COURT REFORM TO OPEN MARCH 9

Bill To Permit Justices
To Retire at 70 With Full

ported by Upper Chamber's Judiciary Group.

MEASURE SLATED FOR PROMPT ACTION

Labor's Non-Partisan
League Calls on Members To Flood Congress
With Letters for Plan.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Capitol Hill received notice today that the intensive phase of the gigantic struggle over President Roosevelt's court reorganization proposal would begin March 9.

Supporters of the presidential proposal succeeded in getting the senate judiciary committee to set that date for the beginning of hearings on the program to empower the President to name one new justice to the federal courts for each justice over 70 who refuses to retire.

Denied Delay.
The committee acted without a record vote after rejecting motions that hearings be postponed until March 15 or 21. Chairman Ashurst, Democrat, Arizona, said Attorney General Cummings probably would be the first witness.

By a vote of 13 to 5, the committee directed a favorable report on another court measure, which is supplementary to the presidential program but which is comparatively non-controversial. It is the long-pending Summers bill to permit the retirement of supreme court justices at full pay upon reaching 70 years of age. Already passed by the house, it now will go to the senate floor.

Meanwhile, the subject of revamping the supreme court bobbed up incidentally at a White House conference, in which Mr. Roosevelt discussed his agricultural program with leaders of farm organizations. It was mentioned, participants said, as one of the things that must be borne in mind in shaping farm proposals.

Senator Burke, Democrat, Nebraska, an avowed opponent of the presidential bill to name new supreme court justices, asserted in a radio speech that "the independence of the judiciary is undergoing the most insidious attack since the constitution was written." He asked that the youth of the nation rally to the opposition.

Senator Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky, a supporter of the bill, said tonight in a broadcast address to the Federal Bar Association that the federal courts have "sought to find technical and obstructive ways to prevent the exercise of the power of the national government in a field where it must be exclusive."

Speaker Bankhead told a press conference the senate should act first on the President's bill. Because the senate has the responsibility of appointing justices to the federal bench, he said, it has a deeper interest in the legislation.

Representative Rogers, Republican, Massachusetts, introduced legislation requiring that all men appointed to the supreme court be native-born American citizens. Its passage would preclude the appointment of Senator Wagner, Democrat, New York, and Felix Frankfurter, both frequently mentioned as likely appointees.

Neely Bars Support.
Senator Neely, Democrat, West Virginia, announced his support of the Presidential program asserting that "the dictatorship over the executive and legislative branches of the government which the supreme court has arrogated to itself."

Labor's Non-Partisan League circulated its membership with an appeal for letters to members of congress.

Peggy Asks Delay In $500,000 Suit

ROANOKE, Va., Feb. 22.—(AP)—Bernard Sandler, attorney for blonde Peggy Garcia, said tonight he had urged Justice Salvatore Cordile, in New York, asking that resumption of Miss Garcia's $500,000 suit against David Robinson be postponed from tomorrow until Wednesday.

Sandler, who remained here tonight with the New York hatchet girl in search of additional information, said he sought the delay "in the interest of justice."

The attorney said he wanted to examine tomorrow the bill of divorce filed in Roanoke September 30, 1935, by attorneys for the girl, nee Pauline Michelle Taylor.

Court officials here, meanwhile, sent a copy of the bill to Abraham J. Halprin, a member of the victim's counsel.

Poll Shows 52 Pct. of South Backs Roosevelt Court Plan

Dixie First Section for Which Complete Returns Are Available.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP,
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—The traditionally solid south is split today as southern voters divide sharply on the merits of President Roosevelt's proposal to increase the size of the supreme court.

Out of every 100 voters reached by the American Institute of Public Opinion in 13 southern states, 52 favor the President's plan while 48 take sides against it.

The south is the first section for which complete returns are available in the institute's first nationwide referendum on the court plan. It is also the first section where the majority joins President Roosevelt in his fight.

Preliminary returns from New England, the east central states and the middle west show that opinion is running against the White House in those sections.

Will the south prove to be the only section to support the President's plan, when the institute finishes tabulation of its first national poll on the court plan within the week? The answer is still uncertain, but

JAMES BUCHANAN DIES AT CAPITAL

House Appropriation Committee Chairman Succumbs to Heart Attack.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Representative James P. Buchanan, Democrat, Texas, economy advocate who held the chairmanship of the powerful house appropriations committee, died tonight after a heart attack. He was 73 years old.

His death took from the congressional finance post a frequent critic of the administration's "hump sum" appropriations.

Despite his personal penchant for economy, however, the veteran Democrat had accepted responsibility for winning house approval of huge sums requested by the President.

He piloted through the chamber the $1,800,000 work relief appropriation, largest single money measure in the country's history, and also saw national defense expenditures reach a new peak late during his committee leadership.

Taylor Takes Post.
Buchanan will be succeeded as appropriations chairman by the oldest member of the house, Representative Taylor, Democrat, Colorado. Taylor will be 80 his next birthday and has not been in the best of health recently, is expected to pass on some of the day.

Accused Policeman Claims Self Defense

SOMERSET, Pa., Feb. 22.—(AP)—A strapping young state policeman testified today he acted in self-defense, denying the state's charge that he beat to death 64-year-old Frank C. Monaghan during a "third degree."

Twenty-five-year-old Stacy Gundersen calmly played the leading role in the courtroom drama of the 13th day of his trial as the first of seven Uniontown law officers indicted on murder charges.

He said Monaghan attacked him from the rear while he was alone with the prisoner questioning him about the cutting of Detective John C. Wall last September 12.

SOCIAL SECURITY ELECTION ASSURED BY HOUSE ACTION

Completion of Governor's Program Near as Repre-

nor Amendment to Measure Added by Senate.

CONSERVATION BILL TO COME UP TODAY

Two Houses in Conflict
Over Talmadge Quiz Expense; Rivers Approves
Hamilton, Harrison Pay

A general election on June 8 to vote on Governor Rivers' program of social security appeared certain yesterday when the house of representatives agreed to a minor senate amendment on a bill providing for the election and the Governor announced he would sign the bill as soon as it reaches his desk.

The house gave final legislative approval to the special election bill as a committee of three members of the senate and a like number of house members reached an agreement on four social security bills ready for final passage.

These conference reports will be read to the house and senate today and their adoption is expected.

Final action on these measures and the approval of the Governor to the election proposal will complete the Rivers social security program in the legislature and the assembly will turn its attention to other major matters.

The house has scheduled for consideration today the administration-sponsored bill consolidating the game and fish and forestry and geology departments into a single department of conservation which also would include a bureau of mines and mining and a bureau of state parks. The senate will have up for consideration the administration-approved bill creating a state department of public safety.

Probe Brings Split.
Meanwhile there arose a conflict between the senate and the house on the amount to be expended in the projected investigation into the Talmadge administration. This came when the senate judiciary committee approved and proposed inquiry but increased the appropriation for it to $50,000. The house-approved bill carries an appropriation of only $10,000.

Senator Paul Lindsay, of Decatur, chairman of the judiciary committee No. 1 which acted on the bill yesterday, suggested the $50,000 appropriation.

REDS BLAST WAY INTO REBEL OVIEDO

Fierce Fighting Rages in Streets of City Besieved Three Months.

BILBOA, Spain, Feb. 22.—(AP)—A bloody struggle raged tonight in the streets of Oviedo, "Alcazar" of the Asturias minelands.

Exiled by reckless dynamiters, lawless miners who light dynamite fuses from their dangling cigarettes and then throw them, 10,000 government militiamen were said by President Juan Antonio Aguirre of the Basque regional regime to have seized eight streets east of the Oviedo north station.

President Aguirre said the plight of the decimated insurgent band, bottled up inside Oviedo for three months, was "critical."

Other government troops pushed an offensive southward on Leon, 55 miles away, to prevent help from reaching the Oviedo insurgents. The

Ravish-Killer Ordered Held for Grand Jury

COATESVILLE, Pa., Feb. 22.—(AP)—A coroner's jury found tonight that 16-year-old Helen Meyer "was deliberately murdered by Alexander Meyer type to be at large."

The six jurors incorporated in their verdict "condemnation of the parole system which permits convicts of the Meyer type to be at large."

Meyer, who was arrested Saturday on a charge of killing the high school girl by striking her with his truck on a highway near her Modena home, served a term in a reformatory three years ago for wounding two Philadelphia girls with pistol shots. He was paroled 14 months ago.

N.Y. TIMES EDITOR, ROLLO OGDEN, DIES

Distinguished Journalist
Succumbs in 82d Year of Pulmonary Ailments.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Rollo Ogdin, editor of the New York Times, died at his home today of a pulmonary congestion at the age of 81.

His death closed a distinguished newspaper career of almost half a century which had earned him a place as one of the "elder statesmen" of American journalism.

Editor of the New York Evening Post for 20 years and of the Times for the last 15 years, Mr. Ogdin remained in active command of his duties until last Monday, when he caught a cold.

His alertness, vigor and freshness of viewpoint, despite his age, had evoked wide admiration. In recent years when eye trouble developed, it was necessary to read to him much of the material which he considered.

Born in Sand Lake, Rensselaer county, New York, in 1856, the son of a Presbyterian clergyman, Mr. Ogdin was graduated from Williams College and served in the ministry for seven years, retiring in 1889 to take up literary work.

Liberal Policy.
He joined the Post in 1891 and became editor in 1903. Under his administration, the paper's editorial policy was liberal and progressive, opposing Republican protectionist policies, assailing President Theodore Roosevelt's early activities in Panama, and advocating woman suffrage, international cooperation for peace, and defense of negro rights.

Mr. Ogdin joined the Times in 1920 and succeeded Charles Ransom Miller as editor on his death in 1922. Un-

Slain Mother's Baby Found Dead in River

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Police found the body of 18-month-old James Otto Adair in the Delaware river today near the spot where his mother's body was recovered yesterday.

Both had been shot, detectives believed, by Charles Smart, whose body was found on a river pier last Tuesday.

The finding of Smart's body with a bullet wound in the head started the search for Mrs. Louisa Adair, 24, and her baby son. Mrs. Adair was known to have been a friend of the 25-year-old waterfront worker.

The baby had been shot in the head and a knitted cap pulled over the wound. Mrs. Adair had been shot twice in the back.

Detective Sergeant Daniel O'Mahoney said he believed Smart shot the mother and baby, threw their bodies in the river and then committed suicide.

HOUSE BODY VOTES AGAINST DRY LAW

Legislature Committeemen by 6-5 Ballot Favor
Repeal on Local Option.

A house subcommittee, unanimously in favor of abandoning Georgia's prohibition laws, voted 6-5 last night for repeal on a local option, package state plan.

The subcommittee will be reported back to the house temperance committee today at a meeting called by Chairman George L. Sabados for immediately after house adjournment.

Both the local option plan and the monopoly system bills will come before the main committee, the author of the latter having expressed intention of offering the state-owned state plan as a committee substitute at today's meeting.

While Theo W. Coleman, of Valdosta, did not include a local option feature in the original monopoly bill, he told the subcommittee he would have such a provision in the measure when he asks the temperance group to give it further consideration.

Although the subcommittee was divided on the type of repeal bill to be recommended to the parent group, all members voted in favor of a "repeal bill."

The vote was taken at the begin-

Fished-Out Airplane Tentatively Identified

CAPE MAY, N. J., Feb. 22.—(AP)—A coast guardman made "partial" identification today of the wreck of an airplane fished out of the Atlantic ocean 80 miles off here.

Elmer Raymond Jr., aviation machinist, said he believed the plane was the one in which two navy fliers crashed off Norfolk, Va., in August, 1934. He witnessed the crash.

The plane which crashed was sunk more than two years ago because it was not considered worth salvaging.

Woman Finds Paying Business In Listening to Other's Troubles

By MARY ELIZABETH PLUMMER
NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—(AP)—The bright young woman who is making a living simply by being a good listener has found that love and loneliness are the great American public's biggest worries.

Miss Ulric Kay—she blazed a new trail in Gotham by listening, when everybody else wants to talk—decided today that loneliness outranks love as a problem on Manhattan island.

But next comes romance—the stenographers who fall hopelessly in love with the boss, and the man who decides his best friend's wife is the girl of his dreams.

They come to Miss Kay, and unburden their woe. She doesn't do anything about it. She just listens.

You pay your money ($3 an hour, $2 for a half hour), take your choice of the troubles that beset you, and get off your chest to a willing ear.

Miss Kay calls herself "a professional listener." She is a tall, cheerful young woman from Chicago—one of those good listeners from the middle west.

When she "hung out her shingle" six weeks ago she expected women to be her clientele, but men come too. Some of the men talk about the

SHERIFF JAKE HALL BLOCKS 9 OTHERS IN DECATUR BREAK

Trio Uses Smuggled Gun,
Assaults Jailer, Speeds
Away in Planted Auto;
Officers Declare Dash
Was Planned Carefully.

Eight white prisoners overpowered two guards and a jailer yesterday to slug their way to freedom from the DeKalb county jail in Decatur and a chain gang camp near Dallas in Paulding county, 30 miles from Atlanta.

Five escaped at Dallas after over-coming two guards.

Three executed a daring break from the DeKalb jail by knocking down a jailer and threatening Sheriff Jake Hall and his son with a smuggled pistol before making a get away in a "planted" automobile.

Police in Atlanta and Fulton county were ordered on the lookout for all the escapes while officers and sheriffs throughout the state were notified of the breaks.

The three who gained freedom from the DeKalb jail were listed as Lawrence Duncan, 22, arrested February 23 as a suspect in a large auto theft ring, and W. G. Maddox, 24, and G. W. Pattillo, 28, held in connection with the recent $500 Lee Baking Company robbery.

Fulton Prisoners on Break.
Guards at the Paulding state highway chain gang camp said the five who escaped while returning to work on a truck yesterday at noon were: Mack Kirkland, 20, Charles Bryant, 18, and Raymond Williams, 24, all serving terms from Fulton county; Earl Turner, 25, serving life for murder in Floyd county; and Grady Price, 19, serving a burglary term from Chatooga county.

Though blood hounds tracked the five Paulding escapes for hours, all trace was lost of the quintet at 8 o'clock yesterday afternoon when they split in two groups and pursued opposite directions through the open country near Villa Rica.

Sheriff Hall and his deputies and DeKalb Police Chief J. B. Dailey followed the three DeKalb escapes into Atlanta, where they had fled in a sedan that had been sitting outside the jail with a key in the lock, but no escape had been reported late last night.

Decatur police reported a grocery at 906 West College avenue, Decatur, was held up and robbed at 7 o'clock last night by two white men in a sedan, but had scanty information and descriptions of the robbers.

Holdup Follows Escape.
Erwin Brown, operator of the store, said one white man came in with a drawn pistol and robbed his cash register of an undetermined amount of money, while a second white man hovered at the wheel of the sedan. Brown was unable to describe the man or the pistol held by the robber, though the general description of the man tallied with the description of one of the DeKalb escapes, officers said.

Both breaks were spectacular and executed with amazing swiftness, it was reported.

Pattillo, Duncan and Maddox seized Jailer T. P. Phillips late yesterday afternoon as he opened the door of an exercising pen in which a dozen white prisoners were confined. As Phillips unlocked the cell door to allow a barber, who had been shaving several of the prisoners, to leave, Pattillo drew a concealed .45-caliber automatic from his clothing and sent his first smashing into Phillips' face.

The three prisoners dashed into Sheriff Hall's office on the same floor and held the sheriff, his son, Lamar Hall, his brother-in-law, Butler Wynn, and his chief said.

"Gaston protested his innocence," Roberts said, "but my men said they found part of a half-pint bottle of whisky in his pocket."

GEORGE WASHINGTON HONORED BY NATION

Ambassador Bullitt Pays
Tribute in France to First

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—(P)—Americans at home and abroad joined today in celebrating the anniversary of the birth of their first President.

Record Washington's birthday crowds flowed into New York, jamming hotels, theaters, museums and various places of amusement. Thousands were visited Washington and picturesque Williamsburg.

The holiday activities ranged from dignified tribute to the first President's memory in great cathedrals of the world to the drink-inspired attempt of four New Yorkers to swim the East river "because Washington swam the Delaware."

Pan-American friendship was toasted in Paris, at the traditional Washington's birthday luncheon at the residence of Ambassador William C. Bullitt. In Washington the house and senate met briefly to hear the first President's farewell address read.

In New York the New York State Polish Clubs, whose earlier compatriots fought beside Washington in the War of the Revolution compared him with President Roosevelt.

"In the eighteenth century work of George Washington in leading the people of America boldly forward along an unfamiliar road, we see a precedent for today's actions of President Roosevelt," said Edward C. Rybicki, president of the Polish clubs.

ADDIS ABABA, Feb. 22.—(P)—Italy's makers of a new Roman empire, stung by an assassin's attack on their new victory, ordered the firing squad instead of the peace-maker for unruly Ethiopians tonight.

From Rome, Chancellor Benito Mussolini decreed:

1. Summary execution for the chameleons natives who, on pretence of receiving gifts, threw hand grenades that wounded Rodolfo Graziani, the hard-bitten marshal who fought his way through the sands and marshes of the south to conquer and become the viceroy of Africa's last independent kingdom.

2. Death for every native chieftain or officer who opposes Italian troops, even in the territory yet unoccupied.

Already, 2,000 native suspects and witnesses in last Friday's bombing have been rounded up; 30,000 troops are in the Addis Ababa garrison and speedy courts-martial are to decide those guilty of last week's sudden attack.

Viceroy Graziani will be charged with a task similar to that executed by Marshal Pietro Badoglio, who ruled with an iron fist after marching into this flaming city at the head of the conquering Roman legions last May 5.

As in those early days of pacification, Italian troops today tore into various sections of the capital city in mopping up operations designed to ferret out malcontent natives.

Badoglio set this precedent for Graziani, his successor of June, 1936: After occupation of Addis Ababa scores of Ethiopians were executed on the grounds that they participated in sacking the city, others because they did not lay down their arms.

Mailed Fist Rule.

Many colonial officers had believed too many silver thalers were being given Ethiopian chieftains with not enough show of a strong hand to keep them in line.

Viceroy Graziani's assistants asserted today the government "will govern with a mailed fist rather than with its hands in the money bag."

Fascist commanders said reprisals for the grenade-bombing will be "extensive and summary."

"The punishment will go beyond ordinary reprisals to obtain a demonstration that the new conqueror will not stand for opposition," they added.

SHIP ASKS ASSISTANCE
AFTER STRIKING ROCK.
SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 22.—(P)—The British motor ship Angelina struck a rock at full speed and was calling for assistance near the island of Formosa, Globe Wireless reported today.

The SOS message picked up by the wireless station at Manila, P. I., said: "Struck rock under water in full speed. We tried to pull out but in vain. Position near Puki Kaku, north Formosa. Grounded, need assistance."

The vessel is owned by the Anglo-Saxon Petroleum Company, Ltd., and was believed not to carry any passengers.

3 Saved From Inferno
By Intelligence of Dog
BALTIMORE, Feb. 22.—(P)—Three persons owed their lives today to the humane intelligence of a police dog which routed them from their burning home.

With smoke and flames pouring through the house, the dog, Sonny, ran from the kitchen to the second-floor bedroom of Leo Badart, 42, leaped up on the bed and aroused Badart. The man awoke his wife and they managed to leave the house safely.

The dog in the meantime had run to the bedroom of a 13-year-old son, Leo Clive Badart, and waked him. The dog ran swiftly back and forth between the two bedrooms until all three persons were safely out of the flaming building.

GRAVES WILL APPROVE SALE TAX BILL TODAY

Alabama Legislature Swings
Into Final Week of Special Session.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 22.—(P)—As Alabama's legislature swung into the final week of its special session today, Governor Bibb Graves scotched rumors he would permit a 2 per cent sales tax bill to become law without his signature by announcing he would sign it tomorrow.

Under Alabama's constitution, bills placed on the Governor's desk during a legislative session become law after five calendar days unless acted upon. The measure must be acted upon before midnight Wednesday or become law.

"Certainly, I'm going to sign the bill," the Governor said today, "but I'm going to be sure everything is in order before I sign it. The bill has been checked, and I expect to sign it tomorrow."

The sales tax becomes effective March 1, repealing the state's 1-1/2 per cent gross receipts tax law February 28. Under its terms, it will expire September 30, 1939.

Final adjournment of the session, which opened November 23, will come Friday under a resolution adopted by house and senate.

FURTHER ACTION VOTED ON N. C. REVENUE BILL.

RALEIGH, N. C., Feb. 22.—(P)—The senate passed on first reading today a revised revenue bill designed to raise approximately $70,000,000 during the biennium ending June 30, 1939, and the house approved a measure authorizing the council of state to build a $100,000 gasoline terminal "if necessary."

The local option liquor bill, passed Friday by both houses, was ratified without ceremony tonight, ending 28 years of state prohibition. Speaker Gregg Cherry of Gaston, announced that the measure had been enrolled and signed by Lieutenant Governor W. P. Horton and himself.

The revenue bill won senate passage after a four-hour debate, during which amendments were added which would:

1. Place a $4 tax on every gasoline pump in the state.

2. Impose a 3 per cent sales tax on all building materials and equipment except rough and dressed lumber, sand, gravel, brick, crushed stone, rock and hollow tile.

Gone With the Wind Crowds Cyclorama

The wind in "Gone With the Wind" is not an ill wind. George I. Simons, general manager of Atlanta parks, said yesterday.

In fact, it has blown with such intensity on the interest of Atlantans and Georgians in southern history that the cyclorama at Grant park is doing a land office business.

Simons said that more than 1,000 persons paid to see the famous cyclorama of the Battle of Atlanta Sunday for the first time. The cyclorama was closed for the past several week ends readers of Margaret Mitchell's "Gone With the Wind" have tramped out to see the circular painting. Business at the park attraction has nearly doubled recently. The money goes into the city coffers.

Arkansas' 1935 liquor legislation law grew eightier in the house of representatives today.

Prohibitionists, charging an attempt to definitely kill Representative John P. Vesey's bone dry measure, defeated a move to amend the rules to make action on bills come ahead of unfinished business at the first or morning hour.

Parliamentary strategy on the part of the wets threw the bill into the unfinished business category last week when Representative James R. Campbell obtained a unanimous vote to reconsider the emergency clause. The house passed the measure last Monday but failed to adopt the clause.

CONFERENCE URGED ON REVENUE BILL.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Feb. 22.—(P)—Recommendations that a statewide meeting of Tennessee businessmen be held at Nashville to propose alterations for Governor Gordon Browning's revenue bill recently suggested to the legislature, were adopted today by the Chamber of Commerce tax committee and representatives of other business interests.

The group asked that the conference be called by the Tennessee Conference Board, an organization of business and professional men formed at the capital last year.

ROOSEVELT ASKS N. Y.
FOR CHILD LABOR BAN

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 22.—(P)—President Roosevelt appealed to the legislature of his home state today to be "pompous" in ratification of the federal child labor amendment, pending since 1924.

He sent a telegram to Governor Herbert H. Lehman, his successor as New York chief executive, which was read at a six-hour public hearing on the proposal before the Republican-dominated assembly judiciary committee.

Mr. Cooper verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. ## Why "BC" Relieves Headache and Neuralgia So Quickly

Many people wonder what there is about the "BC" formula that enables it to relieve headaches, neuralgia and similar pains of an inorganic character so quickly. The answer is simple. The "BC" formula is a special combination of proved, quick-acting ingredients of the type many physicians commonly prescribe, none of which are opium or any of its derivatives. These ingredients are carefully checked, and

BALTIMORE DIVORCEE
DIES OF SHOT INJURIES

Twelve Hours.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Mrs. Leonora M. Viel, attractive 37-year-old divorcee, who lay for more than 12 hours pinned to the floor of her home by the weight of a man who shot her and killed himself, died today of her wounds.

She was shot last Monday night by

The Best GRAY HAIR Remedy is Made at Home
You can now make at home a better gray hair remedy than you can buy, by following this simple recipe: To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any drugstore can put this up for you and mix it for you at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. Barbo imparts color to streaked, faded or gray hair, makes it soft and glossy and takes years off your looks. It will not color scalp, is not sticky or greasy, does not rub off.

Maids 'Quit' Work,
Get Red Cross Food

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 22.—(AP)—Housewives were having their troubles here today. There was a shortage of domestic help reported, maids and cooks alike refusing jobs until their groceries ran out. And most of them had a good supply, not only of food, but clothing, secured free from the Red Cross and other relief agencies during the floods.

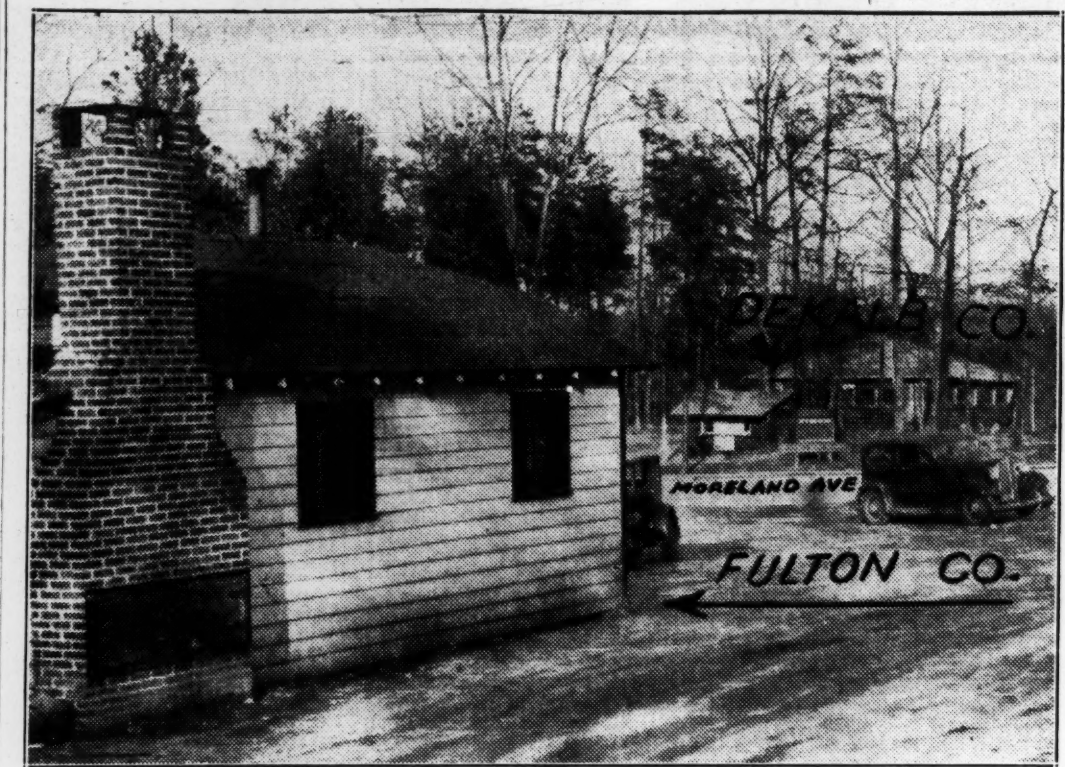

William Henry Armstrong, 69-year-old father of four children, who became enraged, she said, when she refused to go out with him.

Although wounded near the heart, Mrs. Viel was able to tell officers of the shooting. She said that after shooting her Armstrong brought her a pillow to rest her head on but refused to allow her to arise or to call a doctor.

Around midnight, she said he fired a bullet into his temple and fell across her in such a way that she could not get free. It was not until nearly noon the next day that a bookseller discovered the tragedy and called assistance.

A note was found in Armstrong's pocket, reading: "I have gotten justice and am paying the penalty."

Atlantans Quit Fulton 'Desert' for DeKalb 'Oasis'

Profits and losses from Sunday sales are only 50 feet apart on Moreland avenue, three-fourths of a mile from the Atlanta city limits. Shown above are two beer villas, one in Fulton county and one in DeKalb. In the foreground is Willie's place, in Fulton county, which takes on a deserted appearance for the week end since beer sales are forbidden, and in the background is the Pine Grove, in DeKalb, which is the haven of thirsty Atlantans on the week end. At the "oasis" business is reported up 500 per cent, while at the "desert" sales have dropped off two-thirds, the proprietor declares.

50 Feet Separate Beer Profit, Loss
As Fulton Seller Sees Trade Vanish

South Moreland Dealer Saddened as He Watches Sunday Business, Outlawed on His Side of Street, Go to Neighbor Rival.

By LEE ROGERS.
Fifty feet separate huge profits from substantial losses for beer dealers on Moreland avenue, S. E., since the Fulton county Sunday malt beverage sale restriction went into effect.

On one side of the street business has increased 500 per cent. On the other Sunday sales have decreased 66-2/3 per cent under the regulation.

Moreland avenue forms the dividing line between DeKalb and Fulton counties, at this point.

On the right, driving from the Atlanta city limits, is Willie's tourist camp, which has been in business in Fulton county for the past four years. On the left, in DeKalb county, is the Pine Grove, another beer and dance establishment which has been in business about a year and a half.

Fulton county restricts the sale of beer from midnight Saturday night until 6 o'clock Monday morning and from midnight until 6 o'clock on week days. DeKalb county merely forbids the sale of malt beverages between the hours of midnight and 6 o'clock week days and Sundays.

Since the Fulton county regulation forbidding the sale of malt beverages in the county on Sunday was passed, operators of the Willie's tourist camp estimate their business has dropped off two-thirds, the proprietor says.

More than 400 customers were turned away at Willie's last Sunday because they could sell no beer, operators declared. These were all told beer could be bought across the street, the owners said.

About 100 yards up the street, on the DeKalb side, is another store which sells beer. The Sunday business of this place, 1508 Moreland avenue, has jumped by "leaps and bounds," the proprietor was quoted as saying.

Regular customers of the Fulton county dealer approach him for beer on Sunday and take personal offense when told it cannot be sold to them or anyone, the proprietor moaned. The customers often continue week-day patronage of the dealer across the street who can supply them Sunday, he declared.

"I have lost quite a few customers, but am managing to hold my own so far," the dealer continued. "If this restriction continues as is, however, we will soon be forced out of business."

Sent Customers Over.
He emphasized he had nothing against the dealer across the street who was permitted to sell beer and wine on Sunday, pointing to the fact he sent regular customers across the 50-foot dividing line.

The DeKalb dealer must cease sale of wine and beer at midnight, but that is his only restriction.

The Pine Grove had to close early last Sunday night because all their stock of beer and wine had been sold and it was getting embarrassing to have to refuse orders, the proprietor stated.

The negro curb boy at the Pine Grove reported Sunday sales kept him so busy he had no time to rest. Across the street, at Willie's, there were only a few scattered cars. The parking lot at the Grove was full.

Investments of the Fulton dealer were reported at approximately $10,000. The DeKalb dealer said he had around $1,000 invested.

"My business is the best in its history," the DeKalb dealer declared.

"We must have help or go out of business," was the cry from the Fulton dispenser.

DIVES RAIDED HERE; PATRONS FACE ARREST
Mayor Hartford's campaign promise to scour the town and rid it of vice moved closer to its ultimate goal yesterday as raiding squads struck repeatedly. Twelve occupants of dives were arrested, and others were issued to "arrest all patrons of dives as well as operators."

The raiding squad was told to harass all unlicensed, hole-in-the-wall cafes and beer parlors where whisky is sold until the operators close up as Chief

HAPPY RELIEF
FROM PAINFUL
BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backache, rheumatism, pains in the legs, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

M. A. Hornsby ordered a complete and immediate "clean-up" of the city. Orders were issued that all lewd houses were to be closed and all occupants arrested. Owners of such houses were to be notified of the character of the tenants and are to be arrested if tenants are not evicted in a reasonable length of time.

"We've served notice on operators of downtown cafes and beer parlors who have not been conducting clean places and they will save themselves trouble if they close up before we get to them," Chief Hornsby declared. "We mean business and we are going to close up every one of them."

To Get Repeaters.
Lieutenant J. A. McKibben, chief of detectives, said it was nothing new for occupants of dives to be arrested, but the significant thing of the new order was that under it "we mean to get every habitual occupant of these places and all habitual drunks."

Detectives raided "Country's Place" on Edgewood avenue, near Ivy street, yesterday for a second time within as many days, confiscated a small amount of whisky and arrested several persons found in the place. Four cases of liquor were obtained in a raid on the establishment Sunday.

Following the arrest of these men, Lieutenant McKibben said, "We intend to investigate more carefully than ever before all questionable places and the people who patronize them."

Leon Nixie and Elmer Ezzard were arrested in the second raid and charged with possession of liquor. Nichols was charged also with operating without a license and running a dive.

Drive Launched.
The clean-up drive was launched Sunday by Chief of Police Hornsby, who personally led the initial attack after teaching his Sunday school class at the West End Church of Christ.

The chief and Patrolman H. R. McCurley, in plainclothes, arrested Howell Johnson and Henry Jowers in a raid on the Tenth Street Tavern Sunday afternoon. They were tried before Judge A. W. Callaway yesterday in recorder's court. Johnson was fined $15 and costs for operating without a license, $15 and costs for operating a dive and bound over under $500 on liquor charges. Jowers was fined $10 and cost as an occupant of a dive.

Six gallons of corn whisky and a car were confiscated yesterday morning by Patrolmen J. D. Etheridge and P. E. Edwards after two negroes had jumped from the auto and escaped. The policemen sighted the car on McDaniel street, near Fletcher, and thinking it a hit-and-run auto, followed it. The car was abandoned at McDaniel and Berkle streets.

EX-LABOR SPY HEADED G. M. 'LOYAL WORKERS'

Former Atlanta Agent Tells Senate Probers He Quit First.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Senate investigators heard today that a former Pinkerton detective agency operative, James T. Johnson, headed the "loyal workers" committee organized in General Motors' Baltimore plant.

Johnson, a slight, mustached auto worker, told the LaFollette civil liberties committee he had once worked for Pinkerton on the Atlanta, Ga., fair grounds, but denied he was on the agency's payroll when he helped form the anti-union committee.

Earlier testimony showed that General Motors paid $839,000 to Pinkerton and other detective agencies for carrying on labor espionage in its plants. The service was "wiped out" January 31.

Used Plant Facilities.
Another leader of the "loyal workers" group, Harry Dorsey, testified that he had used the factory letter duplicating machines and pay roll in sending out post cards inviting employees to an anti-union rally.

The same equipment was used he added, in preparing circulars to be sent to Maryland congressmen, urging them to enact laws against "sit-down" strikes.

Admitting "I was doing something wrong," he said he had a key to the plant stationery room, where the equipment was kept, without the knowledge of superiors.

Unionist Warned.
Michael Gallo, an expert welder who had worked for General Motors 15 years, told the committee he was demoted for union activity, and that Roy N. Wismer, plant manager, had warned him union members were "going to be taken for a ride."

"Union men will never run this plant," he quoted Wismer as saying. "The loyal workers are really heroic and some of them are carrying guns."

Triple Slayer Offers
To Be 'Guinea Pig'

MCLESTER, Okla., Feb. 22.—(AP)—Julius Bohannon, triple slayer and leader of a 23-man break from McAlester penitentiary last May 13, offered tonight to become a "human guinea pig" for medical science.

"I want to help my children get an education," said the square-jawed prisoner, now under two life sentences.

Paul Colvert, member of the state board of affairs, said the state was ready to give him a trial.

"He wants to be a guinea pig," Colvert said, "and if some medical organization is anxious to perform some experiments with new medicines or drugs, I think the way is open."

Bohannon has two children.

HORNSBY QUESTIONED
BY FULTON GRAND JURY

A special committee of the Fulton grand jury questioned Chief M. A. Hornsby, of the Atlanta police, for more than an hour behind closed doors yesterday morning.

Following the conference, Hornsby refused to comment on the subject discussed saying only "It was just a private matter the jury wanted to know about."

The committee for several days has been investigating the chasing of speeding liquor and "bug" cars by police and recommendations as to means of eliminating them in the future are expected to be included in the jury's presentments Friday.

Jurist Accused on Drinking
Count, Contenancing Gaming.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 22.—(AP)—The Arkansas house of representatives closed a five-week investigation of law enforcement conditions at Hot Springs today by voting, 70 to 20, to exonerate Circuit Judge Earl Witt of charges of official misconduct.

The charges were that Judge Witt had been intoxicated in court, took no steps to close open gambling at the resort city and failed to cause an investigation of vote fraud allegations following the Democratic primary last August.

A minority report, signed by two of the committee members, said no proof of the charges against the jurist had been developed and urged that the investigation be dropped.

The final vote came after the house, sitting as a committee of the whole, voted 85 to 15 to recommend that "the house do not impeach Judge Witt."

Nude Auto Driver
Accosts 6 Women

PORTSMOUTH, England, Feb. 22.—(UP)—Police today were on the lookout for a motorist with a new method of picking up girls in his car.

Six women reported the unidentified driver cruised around town wearing no clothes and invites young ladies to ride with him.

The girls said they refused the invitation but took his license number. It was not registered. Police explained the woman's description of the naked motorist was necessarily incomplete, which would make it difficult to find him.

THE NATIONAL INCOME

A recent report of the Department of Commerce estimates that the total income of the nation in 1936 was $60,000,000,000. This compares with a high of $79,000,000,000 in 1929 and a low of $45,000,000,000 at the worst period of the depression in 1933. About 40 per cent of that loss has been recovered.

Of the $60,000,000,000 total income in 1936 it is disclosed that the nation's workers received $38,500,000,000, or 63 per cent of the total, climbing from a low of $29,000,000,000 in 1933, an increase of approximately 30 per cent.

Labor income is defined in the report as income from salaries and wages of all employees, and includes wages paid to unskilled workers and to skilled craftsmen and salaries paid to office personnel.

As labor receives 63 per cent of the total national income, it becomes apparent that any event in industry, commerce, transportation or agriculture which acts to curtail the regular receipt of wages cuts the spending ability of those directly affected, and indirectly spreads to a multitude of others in nowise affected by the original cause.

It cost the nation billions of dollars to "prime the pump" of industry and put millions of men back to work at painful wages, but the statistics issued by the Commerce Department are convincing evidence that the result has been well worth the price.

STERILIZATION PROGRESS

The state sterilization bill, which was adopted by the house 152 to 13 and 27 to 4 in the senate, places Georgia in a position to become the twenty-ninth state of the nation which has adopted this scientific and humanitarian method of checking the increase in insane, feeble-minded, physical human derelicts who are charges upon the public in our asylums, hospitals, charitable institutions and prisons, or eking out a miserable existence somewhere on public aid.

The measure provides: That the State Board of Eugenics, composed of the Board of Control, the director of the Department of Health and the superintendent of the Milledgeville State Hospital, be authorized to order the sterilization of any sufferer from a mental or physical disorder regarded as a menace to future generations. The rule can be applied to patients at the state hospital or prisoners at the state farm or on chain gangs. However, they are given the right to a hearing before the board.

Eugenic sterilization is now recognized by state officials, physicians, parole and probation officers, social workers and officials of asylums, hospitals and prisons as a definite advance of modern civilization in the prevention of increase in insanity and crime. It has been continuously used by American institutions since 1899, when the first sterilizations were performed in Indiana. Apart from the United States, two provinces in Canada have put it into practice, as have several European nations.

Slow growth in sentiment favoring sterilization laws has been attributed principally to the fact the unfortunates have been confused with the crude and brutal operations practiced in primitive times.

Sterilization is a simple surgical operation that prevents parentage without unsexing the patient; not a gland, blood vessel or nerve is removed. Those who are operated on are merely placed in the same category as those men and women who are born sterile, and, without examination by a competent physician, can only guess that they are sterile because they fail to have offspring.

A report on eugenic sterilizations performed in state institutions under state laws from 1899 up to January 1, 1936, shows a total of 23,166, of whom 9,841 were males and 13,325 were females. California, which enacted a sterilization law in 1909, leads all other states with a total of 10,801, of which 5,588 were males and 5,213 females.

Eugenic sterilization is applied under the state laws to persons who would be likely to produce defective children. It protects such persons, their potential children, the state and posterity. Births among families living on public charity have increased about 40 per cent within recent years, and psychologists estimate at least 1,000,000 persons in the United States are so feeble-minded as to need special care and attention. These estimates are aside from the habitual criminal element which breeds its kind to prey upon the public when not behind prison bars.

THE JEW IN POLAND

The monstrous brutality of legalized anti-Semitism in Germany will never be acquiesced in by the enlightened conscience of mankind. But it has been operative for so long a time that the fine edge of horror has been dulled. That is bound to happen when civilized people accept their helplessness to alter such ruthlessness.

Now we are made aware of a fresh emergence of organized discrimination, this time in Poland where the Jewish position has become pitiable beyond description. The Poles were never overfriendly to the Jews, but recently what can be described as suzerainty touched with hostility has become direct and patent repression with official approval. Recent riots among university students have brought the problem into the foreground of international concern.

In Germany, it was the need for a scapegoat upon whom to heap the wrath of a resentful folk which led Hitler to translate his private prejudice into a national program. In Poland, it is common economic wretchedness which is causing the government to consider so momentous a plan as the mass expulsion of the whole Jewish community.

Contributing to pressure for such a scheme is the rise of a special form of Fascism appealing to the youth of Poland. In Germany, jobless young men swarmed into the ranks of National Socialism. In Poland, the same thing is happening as the powers that be yield more and more to demands that the Jews be driven out of business and industry in order that Poles may profit from opportunities thus released.

More than 3,000,000 human beings are being made to feel that they are not wanted, that they cannot move too soon from a country which has been their home for hundreds of years. And they have nowhere to go.

The nations are so much afraid of the swift impact of war, and they are so feverishly arming against that event, that nothing comes from any quarter to halt the fearful process of degradation and extinction.

JUSTIFIED PROTECTION

The Williams bill granting professional immunity to newspapermen is merely a logical extension of the privilege long enjoyed by doctors, lawyers and ministers. With the enactment of this measure, Georgia editors and reporters will not have to worry about efforts to make them testify concerning sources of confidential information.

The same protection is accorded their colleagues in Kentucky, Maryland, Alabama, California, New Jersey and Arkansas. There is every reason to predict that it will soon be the rule throughout the country. There have been entirely too many instances of hectoring judges and overzealous prosecutors who, by threatening reporters with contempt charges, have somehow felt that they were promoting the ends of justice.

That cannot happen where newspapermen are by law saved from this form of third degree. The first commendation in the reporter's decalogue is to keep his promise not to divulge the identity of those who believe he can be trusted. By its action the legislature has given this relationship an honored status.

To empower the government to ban enlistments in Spain, French deputies voted, 591 to 0, or very nearly as unanimous as a state legislature voting itself some pay.

Fancy, digging into a Kentucky hillside for a jug of Bourbon and coming up with a fruit jar containing $6,000,000,000 in gold.

An eastern artist fears he has lost his touch. A mural he painted for a public building failed to split the community into two camps.

The new French ambassador brings champagne and truffles to Washington, which seems impolitic in a war debtor, as this is strictly a hamburger country.

Cuba is to back Mr. Roosevelt for the 1937 Nobel peace award. That scraping sound would be the lifting of eyebrows along our supreme bench.

Notes From a Diary.

GREEN BAY, Wis.—The chief topic of conversation, the smoking of opium, and the other such places where men are thrown together is policies in so far as France is concerned. In Germany, food. Over here it's money and business.

Wisconsin is an experimental station in progressive social legislation for the whole nation. Milwaukee is the Vienna of America. Pre-Schuchnigg Vienna, of course.

My road here in Green Bay crossed the pathway of Dr. Ludwig Lewishohn, the distinguished author, who is on an educational lecture tour. The last time I had seen him was on the Blue Magazine Premiere in Paris. Dr. Lewishohn is writing a new book called "Trumpet of Jubilee."

There are thousands, if not tens of thousands, of young American artists, who have studied in the great European academies, where they were amongst the first but who are now seeking out a miserable existence here in America. It is not time to set them to work and throw away the crude, amateurish, cheap, no-account rubbish with which many of our Americans decorate the walls of their homes?

"I only want real classics," said a leading critic of Milwaukee, who showed me around his far-famed library. "Since classics are unobtainable, I content myself with bare walls." In other words, our artists must wait till they are better than their works are bought and they may starve in the meantime. It is true the merchant prince of Amsterdam allowed Rembrandt, the greatest painter of all time, to perish in utter destitution, but it is not a good example to follow.

Read with breathless interest today David Cushman Coyle's new book wherein he points out some of the savage injuries Americans are inflicting upon their country. "What is the cause of this ignorance," he says, "we are doing with our eyes open. . . . Only 300 years ago the vast interior of China was a land of heavily wooded mountains and fertile valleys supporting an immense population. It is desert now. It took the Chinese with their crude tools 250 years to lay waste the land. Any farmer who plows, cuts, burns and wastes. With tractors and gang-plows, steel cables and pulp mills. The job will not take us 250 years."

A distinguished physician writes in the Scientific Monthly that 6,000,000 children in this country have been scarred in the economic struggle of the depression. "The new-born are feeble," he says, "the children are stunted. In Europe the unhappy children of the war years, because of the bloodthirsty mobs of the thirties. In America the unhappy, half-starved children of the depression will grow up emotionally twisted, restless, rebellious."

"Is this the sort of country we want to leave behind us, to be our monument in history? Ravaged lands, wasted forests, empty oil fields, people starved, stunted, ignorant and savage? We never meant to do that to our country. Why do we do it? What strange insanity is driving us to destroy ourselves?"

Professor C. E. Joad, the brilliant writer on philosophy, thinks that in the United States the most moral country in the world because "All American citizens strive to be exactly like each other and on the whole they succeed." A friend of his, who was a straw hat in New York before the season commenced, was made to suffer considerable embarrassment.

Irvin S. Cobb's five rules for "fine living": 1. Be tolerant of the other fellow. 2. Learn to lie gracefully and convincingly. 3. Don't be a loan officer to your friends. 4. Wait 24 hours to say mean things—and then forget them. 5. Make virtues of your vices—by holding them in check.

HEALTH TALKS

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

Last autumn, a Hollywood artist gained some publicity as the author of a bizarre plan to freeze a human subject and then to restore life by thawing the frozen subject some time later. When news of this plan was widely known, the artist inquired where he or she can sell his body for scientific use—that is, the naive reader wishes to raise the sun on each star, and cure his body when he or she is through with it. Medical schools or individuals who may legitimately require cadavers can get all the material they want free of charge from institutions of learning, public charges die and no one claims or cares to bury the remains. State laws provide for this.

State laws should provide also for the material for scientific experimentation. Thousands of men and women now rotting in prisons should have the privilege of volunteering as subjects for scientific experimentation. A suitable recognition for this service to society or mankind should be accorded such convicts—say a reduction of the term of imprisonment. Prisoners who have been given life or long sentences should be available to qualified scientific investigators for tests of the inoculability of cancer, the communicability of leprosy by insect or other carrier. I am fairly cold-blooded, but I could hardly sanction or justify such experiments upon a volunteer whose free life is not already forfeit. Such experimentation on a prisoner who has been sentenced to life imprisonment or capital punishment would be entirely humane.

There are many experiments which are not particularly dangerous yet need doing for the benefit of humanity. Experiments in nutrition, diet, body chemistry, physiological action of medicines, anesthetics, antiseptics. Such experiments would not gravely affect the subject's health or well-being, and would cause only temporary discomfort or restriction.

At present we rely too much on animal experimentation and deduction by analogy, except in cases where the animal is so different from the human that the results are of little value. It is wrong to use valuable lives when lives of comparatively little value are available in prisons everywhere.

If the necessary legislation were enacted probably a great many condemned criminals would be glad of the opportunity to get what consolation they might derive from so serving society which they have unforgetfully offended.

But it didn't work. The girl, all her life, had probably never read a book of any kind of her own volition.

She couldn't refuse his gifts, so always accepted the books, politely as the knee book. But she took them home, tossed them in the attic and they were the last of them.

Now, the young man has given up

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

BY PAUL MALLON.

SUPPRESSION WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Don't whisper a word of it to the southern congressmen, but a slightly rare, new law, passed by the House of Representatives, will not be delivered by Rural Resettlement. You cannot get a copy of it around the Agriculture Department for $100. Advances furnished to news dispensing agencies have been confiscated, canceled, recalled and suppressed. Pals of Agriculture Secretary Wallace rushed about and borrowed the few remaining copies from the hands of unsuspecting newsmen. These have now been permanently mislaid.

It is obvious that Mr. Wallace is not going to let that classic open fall into congressional hands at a time when President Roosevelt is trying to soothe the brows of southern senators, ruffled by his supreme confounding plan. And to make the occasion doubly inauspicious, Mr. Wallace is likewise now lading out soothing syrup for the southern legislators to make them swallow his kind of farm tenet plan.

But what makes suppression triply desirable is that Dr. Alexander, the successor to Professor Tugwell, intended to deliver it to a conference of farm leaders called to promote harmony between the south and west.

FAST WORK If you inquire what happened, you will be informed perhaps this was not the time and a west-south harmony conference was not the place to reopen the Civil War.

However, that is not exactly the way it happened. It seems the speech was prepared in the Rural Resettlement Administration and sent over to the Agriculture Department for an okay. Advance copies were circulated in the usual routine way. No one paid much attention to it until a few hours before it was to be delivered. Then someone near Mr. Wallace here discovered the possibilities of a bad reaction. Congressmen were hastily called. The speech was ordered killed. Agriculture publicity men yelled: "Stop the presses!" Confidential instructions to "disregard the speech of Dr. Alexander" were sent to all news circulating agencies. Instructions were passed around quietly to all officials to say nothing.

TUGWELLIAN TRADITION A perusal of the lost speech indicates that most southerners probably cannot read anyway, so it may be safe to relate to the rest of the country that Dr. Alexander's viewpoint looks up tobacco road. He is a former southern minister, but his undoubted masterpiece contains assertions that the southern farm standard of living is 30 to 50 per cent below the national level, that sanitary facilities are most primitive, that houses are the poorest, that the good-for-nothingness of the tenant farmer is really illness due to underfeeding.

To the administration's harmony conference (the first annual National Farm Institute), Dr. Alexander would have said, had he been permitted: "Security for the farm population is more important for the south than other sections of the country. Yet our farm leaders in recent years have come from the middle west."

Note—Dr. Alexander must have forgotten Agriculture Chairman Jones in the house and Smith in the senate; Ed O'Neal, head of the Farm Bureau Federation, who hails from Alabama, Senator Bankhead of Alabama.

"The farmer is always first in the minds of the middle west statesmen. Such is too often not the case with southern statesmen. Southern leaders must recognize agriculture as the most vital force in the life of the south, for before anything can be done materially to improve conditions in the south, it must develop a sound agriculture. Any realistic political affiliation for gaining these aims must be with other farming regions."

Note—If V. P. Garner, Floor Leaders Robinson and Rayburn ever find out this speech, they will certainly be some more suppressed remarks about carpetbaggering politics.

TRAGEDY The suppressed text continues: "The policy of the south toward the problems causing and growing out of farm tenancy has been to let them alone."

The growth of white tenancy, the loss of foreign markets, the widespread depletion of soil fertility and the recent depression have forced many to face the problems and see the necessity for planning as their solution for agricultural problems.

"Many southern leaders, however, still cling to the belief that industry will repeat its wonders for the south. Because of this, and the fact that the credit system of the south is controlled by northeastern capital, their political affiliation has been with these regions rather than with other progressive farming regions."

Dr. Alexander also thought it tragic that so few people voted in the south. His statistics indicated only 14 per cent of South Carolina citizens above 21 took the trouble to vote in 1936; Georgia, 19 per cent; Alabama, 20 per cent; Virginia, 25 per cent.

He neglected to point out that the result would not have been different if 101 per cent had voted, as was suspected in some of the machine-laden precincts of the large northern cities.

The most horrible aspect of the speech from the standpoint of Mr. Wallace's friends here lies in their contemplation of what remarks like these might do to his 1940 presidential candidacy. They are saying that Mr. Wallace is about ready to transfer Dr. Tugwell's old bureau back to the molasses tycoon, or even to Spain.

Needing Help.

There are, in Decatur, a dozen or so blind people who are extremely anxious to accept an invitation to pay a weekly visit to the Lighthouse for the Blind, Atlanta. They can go there every Thursday and enjoy all the privileges of the place, can get those talking books and the Braille books the government provides for her citizens without charge. They can browse around the library, even as you or I, and they can enjoy all the rest of the benefits that mean so much to them. That's the rub.

It is hard for people without vision to make the street car journey, with the necessity of transferring in the heart of downtown traffic. They should be provided other transportation.

So, anyone who can furnish an automobile on Thursday for this community, should be commended and rewarded with Mrs. Tom Fry, 523 South Candler street, Decatur, telephone Dearborn 0827-M.

Love's Labor Wasted.

This little story, specifically, concerns two people who do not live in Atlanta. It came in a round about way from a city a good many hours from here, and it is a good one. One of the characters is an extremely beautiful girl. Lovely, in every detail, to the eye. She, however, had not enjoyed a particularly fine education and she revealed this lack every time she spoke. Her conversational English was extremely incorrect. Almost atrocious.

The other character is a young man. He was much infatuated with the lovely young lady and dreamed of some day making her his wife. Whenever they were together in the presence of other people, however, he could not help feeling ashamed of the way his girl friend talked. So he hesitated about suggesting matrimony.

He had a great idea, however, and he decided to try it. He took her to a restaurant and gave her a bouquet of flowers and candy. She was a free spender in so far as his means allowed, and for several months he gave her regular presents of some of the finest books, believing she would learn, unconsciously, from them and that her knowledge and use of English would reach that stage of pleasant rectitude customary among well read people.

But it didn't work. The girl, all her life, had probably never read a book of any kind of her own volition.

She couldn't refuse his gifts, so always accepted the books, politely as the knee book. But she took them home, tossed them in the attic and they were the last of them.

Read Argument N E W

On Court Reform N E W Feb. 22.—I have read hundreds of columns of argument and comment on the supreme court thing and my impression is that these others are merely expressing their own well-known prejudices and don't know any more about it than I do.

My own attitude, and it is just an attitude and not a well-informed conclusion, is one of suspicion. Because I know for a certainty that Mr. Roosevelt keeps some pretty dirty political company around the court, especially in Chicago, Kansas City and Louisiana. And when Homer Cummings has the gall to lead the President's case against the court, I want to know how much more just would the change of atmosphere in New Orleans which decided his department to abandon the prosecution of the income tax indicts against Huey P. Long's boys after Huey's death and the great political reconciliation. After Mr. Cummings disposes of that satisfactory I can listen to him on the subject of a branch or department of the government which has always seemed to me to be much cleaner than his.

The mere lapse of time doesn't blur the reality of the unfinished business in New Orleans, where the federal court system found indictments which were held in a club suspicion. Political opponents of the administration as long as the opposition lived, but were quietly tossed out the window when the opposition made peace. The official makes it appear that the federal courts were put to political purposes in Louisiana, and the whole case gives me a feeling that the President might use the supreme court similarly if he should ever get control of it.

Louisiana

Case Was Raw Huey was giving the President plenty of trouble down there, but the boys in Washington thought they had him over a barrel in the income tax matter. So either they were using Mr. Long's old boys in New Orleans, or coercion in the first place or they quit cold for political peace in the second place, which would have been just as bad.

Isn't as though they had ever given any reasonable explanation. The announcement just said the cases were being dropped because of a change of atmosphere, which strikes me as a little guilty. This kind of doing is all reminiscent of Huey's own methods, and the packing of the court was one of his favorite tricks. Huey wanted to hear down on an opponent in Louisiana, he would go over the man's tax accounts and drive him crazy or into bankruptcy or surrender. If the fellow surrendered, the grudge died and everything was hotsytoty. And now everything is hotsytoty between the administration and Mr. Long's old boys in New Orleans. But in view of the political enemy it should have been left to the juries to decide whether the indictments were well founded or not. If there is some Department of Justice of the weather bureau which disposes of serious indictments because of a change of atmosphere?

Know Who

May Get Posts

I think it would help some people to reach a decision on the supreme court proposal to know in advance just whom Mr. Roosevelt has in mind for the appointment to the bench. Some of his old appointments have not been too hot and I wonder if he has any Theodore Bilbos or Rev. Stanleys left. If there is some matter better than the President's selections, the naming of the names just now would give the people a chance to pass judgment on his sense of decency. A little inquiry into the records, predilections and character of the men would indicate whether he wants to name judges or just another party commission composed of political clowns and widget-manufacturers.

I think my suspicions are sharpened, too, by the cordial family relations existing between the national party and the local organizations which, in some towns, extend right down into the underworld of gambling houses and dance clubs.

Reluctantly, but more and more, I am inclined to the belief that Mr. Roosevelt is like an order of fish. Generally speaking, his stuff is all right, but you want to be careful not to choke on the bones.

It Required a National Law and Many Armed Men To Make Hair Tonic a Beverage

By ROBERT QUILLLEN

A young Frenchman named Louis, having learned his trade well, opened a shop to sell clothing to the ladies. The shop prospered from the first, but it was not his only source of income.

He had a talent for drawing imaginary garments and creating new styles, and soon the demand for his work was so great that it brought him more money than the shop itself.

The future seemed to promise security, so Louis married a smart girl named Annette and made her his partner in the business.

The result was unfortunate. Annette was quick to resent any semblance of an effort to boss her and unconsciously regarded Louis as an antagonist. If there was conflict of opinion, she was miserable unless she had her own way.

Louis deferred to her in everything to keep her happy, and she soon had complete charge of the shop, yet she seemed constantly on guard as though fearing his interference. If he did anything without consulting her, she ridiculed and resented it.

One day it occurred to Louis that he no longer had a part in the shop. Nothing reflected his personality or taste. He had been pushed out.

So he said to Annette, without complete frankness: "My dear, you manage the shop very nicely without my help, so I shall leave it to you and devote all of my time to my drawing."

From that moment the shop was doomed; not because Annette lacked the ability to manage it alone, but because she lost all interest in it. That is a true story, and you will find it repeated in many places and many ways.

We are childish creatures still, and the things we value most are the things we are denied. All values are mental, of course, and desire alone makes a coveted thing precious. When we gain it, the desire is gone and the most of the value is gone with it.

A LUCID EXPLANATION

Editor Constitution: Your editorial of the 13th instant, entitled "Supreme Court Must Remain Independent," is the most lucid explanation of the fundamentals of this all important question I have seen my privilege to read.

Our Constitution is not subject to change by either the President or Congress, but only by the vote of the people. Even if the proposed additions to the supreme court can be legally made within the present framework of the constitution, then it is of the utmost importance for the people and our legislators in particular to look at the objective of the President—his object is to add men of his own school of thought, so that he will be assured a majority who will pass as constitutional his pet schemes that have already been declared unconstitutional. If this is not "packing" the supreme court, what would you call it?

Editor Constitution: My attention has been called to the editorial entitled "Value of Fingerprinting" which was published in the January 29, 1937, issue of The Atlanta Constitution.

I enjoyed your comments concerning the many benefits to be derived from civilian fingerprinting and know that your editorial will serve to better acquaint the readers of The Constitution with these facts. Incidentally, it is noted that the statement is made to the effect that the Federal Bureau of Investigation has on file over 600,000 fingerprints of criminals. ## DRIVING UP REVENUE SOURCES

Editor Constitution: I have followed, with much interest, the splendid support The Constitution has given en, both editorially and in its news columns, to the effort which the tax interests are making to have the undistributed profits tax amended in certain particulars.

While the success of this act in throwing into taxable channels immediately large sums of money will not be denied, it seems axiomatic that in so far as this money represents funds which would otherwise be used for the strengthening or expansion of industry the act but insures diminishing returns in the future.

The whole New Deal program is entirely dependent upon ever-increasing revenues and the wisdom of a tax which tends to dry up the sources of those revenues would seem to be apparent.

demands of the President. This would be a dangerous precedent since too much power would then be merged in one man.

Many people will favor the passage of the President's supreme court measure for no other reason than that the President sponsors it. A great many people have confidence in the President, like him personally and will acquiesce without studying the proposal, its far-reaching effects and its powerful implications. They will accept it because of their confidence in the President. But Jefferson warned of this very thing when he said: "Free government is founded on jealousy, not in confidence." And again he counseled: "Let no more be said about confidence in man but bind him down from mischief with the chains of the constitution."

Even if people should like the President's proposals and favor the legislation he has offered and will offer for consideration to a subservient congress, should the bill pass congress, the change might prove to be an enormous thing for the country in the long run. Alexander Hamilton was cognizant of this truth when he said: "No man can be sure that he may not be tomorrow the victim of a spirit of injustice by which he may be the gainer today." This he wrote in the Federalist in 1788. Therein lies food for thought for the working people of this country who, after all, have more to lose than any other class if constitutional barriers are broken down.

2. I oppose the measure because an independent judiciary is necessary to the preservation of the constitution and therefore for the liberties of our people. The supreme court is the watchdog of the constitution. If its independence is impaired, then no power exists to curb the legislative and executive will. Washington was not unaware of the vital importance of maintaining unimpaired the independence of the federal judiciary, for in 1801 he offered this toast: "The judiciary of the United States, independent of party, independent of power, independent of popularity." Charles Warren suggests he might have added, "independent of politics."

3. I oppose the President's measure because the system of checks and balances by a division of powers into three branches of government would be seriously impaired if not destroyed.

So much is at stake in this great controversy I fervently hope that the American people will look closely into the nature of and into the powerful implications of the President's proposed plan before giving it their approval.

FEDERAL REGULATION OF CREDIT FORECAST BY STORE EXECUTIVE

Two Retail Groups in Session Here; Sales Gains in 1937 Predicted.

By WILLIAM G. KEY.

Credit, because it touches our social relations more than any single business instrument, is destined to be controlled ultimately by government regulation for the good of the whole social order. J. J. Doran, Atlanta department store executive, yesterday told members of the National Retail Credit Association and the National Consumer Credit Reporting Corporation at the opening of a district meeting at the Biltmore hotel.

The meeting of the third and fourth districts will close today. More than 200 credit representatives from the southeastern states are attending the sessions.

Another speaker, L. S. Crowder, general manager-treasurer of the national association, predicted that retail sales will continue to forge ahead this year. "Especially significant," he said, "in favorable trends, is the increase in retail sales of higher-priced merchandise as well as so-called 'luxury' items. Credit sales and collection percentages have shown steady, continuous gains since 1934."

Doran, speaking on the subject of New Deal credit, said that "over a period of a great many years New Deal principles have appeared under various names. They have been called 'socialistic' in one era, 'communist' in another era, and 'idealistic' in the present era. In each era, he said, there were many men who did not recognize the trend these principles were taking, and, therefore, these men were surprised when they had to accept a changed order of operation."

Outlines Federal Regulation. "Over the years," he said, "we have witnessed the cavalcade of industrial regulation by governmental agency. Railroads were regulated in regard to rates which might be established for both passenger and freight traffic and certain reciprocal arrangements between railroads and large volume shippers were eliminated. Indirectly, sales prices have been regulated for industries by tariff laws of various kinds. Sundry methods of subsidization have been established for agriculture and for shipping. Compulsory education in certain states has been established which required businesses operating in these states to change their personnel policies."

The NRA attempted to regulate wages, hours of employment and fair trade practices. The National Labor Relations Board is supposed to force arbitration in labor disputes. Many states now have fair trade laws. "All of these changes," he said, "were revolutionary, but is now a matter of accepted routine" was established on the theory that through each and every one of them there would accrue the greatest good to the greatest number of people.

In predicting government regulation of credit, Doran said that "we have already witnessed some action along these lines. Our national bankruptcy act, with all its weaknesses, is at least an attempt to establish social justice in our economic relations. Finance corporations have been created by government action to grant relief to farmers heavily burdened with mortgages. Home owners facing eviction have been saved by taxpayers' money. Businesses employing large numbers of people unable to continue employment because of inability to secure bank loans, have been financed by the RFC. Savings bank deposits are now guaranteed."

Cites U. S. Credit Aid.

"You have also witnessed the use of credit extended by governmental action to help speed up the process of recovery," he said, "and the FHA as a means of financing repairs to property and for construction of new residential buildings, are definite attempts to restore economic stability by the use of credit instruments when in the opinion of congress business did not put such instruments to work."

He told the credit men that the influence of these government actions on the buying habits of customers might be estimated to some extent by the new all-time records of department store business derived from sales made on a deferred payment plan.

Doran predicted legislation to safeguard customers against unsatisfactory credit practices and for the purchase and return of merchandise.

"Simultaneously with these many actions on the part of the government," he said, "there has been in operation a liberal credit and collection policy on the part of business. The length of time it requires to liquidate an account, whether it be a retail account or a wholesale account, is slowly but surely increasing."

"Each year an economist or businessman or a credit executive of national reputation cries out that we must tighten up in the extension of credit if we are to escape another economic debacle. It seems to me, however, that these warnings are mere voices crying out in the wilderness. They go unheeded, probably, because such warnings are too superficial, and do not go far enough in analyzing the situation."

He pointed out that if savings deposits in banks can be guaranteed against loss, it is reasonable to expect that accounts of businessmen established by a liberal credit policy,

MONTGOMERY PAPER PRAISES HARTSFIELD

'Petitioners for Recall Convinced It Should Be Against Law To Enforce Law.'

As Joseph S. Crespi, originator of the Hartsfield recall movement, yesterday announced that 2,000 persons had signed the recall petitions, the mayor's attention was called by friends to numerous editorials and comments appearing in the press in other cities concerning the movement.

A caustic editorial which appeared in the Montgomery Advertiser, a leading newspaper in Alabama's capital, follows:

"Atlanta's new mayor has been in office six weeks. During that time he has instituted numerous reforms, many of them designed to restore the city's credit."

"A movement has been launched to recall the mayor, two of the principal grounds for the actions being:

"He has sanctioned the enforcement of certain traffic laws to the extent that the general public is greatly inconvenienced and the merchants in the heart of the city suffer great financial loss by reason of the unjust distribution of an excess number of parking tickets."

"He has sanctioned and co-operated in the prohibiting of the sale of beer on Sundays in the city to the great loss of many merchants and citizens."

"In other words, the petitioners are convinced that it should be against the law to enforce the law."

The editorial was headed "Malfeasance."

Crespi said yesterday the movement is making such satisfactory progress that the planned mass meeting is not needed just at present.

In turn advocated by the government, also could be guaranteed against loss. Urges Watch of Legislation.

He also pointed to consumer co-operatives and their possible influence in the future, and urged that the credit men watch national and state legislation affecting credit as a defense against unwise proposed legislation and preparedness for co-operation with an administration of those laws which might conceivably be passed.

Crowder, in his speech and in a later interview, said that "present indications are that retail sales for 1937 will increase 10 per cent over 1936 and will total approximately $41,000,000,000 compared with the peak year 1929, when retail volume reached a total of $49,000,000,000."

"Recovery has been attained in credit-granting retail stores," definitely, and, we hope, permanently." He urged that retailers keep credit on a sound basis, both for their protection and that of the consumer. He recommended sale of "merchandise and service—not the lure of 'easy credit terms,' which only leads customers to 'overbuy' or purchasing beyond their ability to pay."

The afternoon sessions of the credit meeting were given over to group meetings and were followed last night by a banquet and dance.

Prisoner Admits Girl Was in Cell Three or Four Hours for a 'Party'

Detroit Police Baffled as To How Lass Got Into 'Apartment.'

DETROIT, Feb. 22.—(UP)—Memories of luxury and romance coursed through the mind of Dayton Dean tonight as the pudgy triggerman of the Black Legion sat moodily in a bare cell to which he was banished after police found him entertaining a 17-year-old southern girl in his "de luxe" jail apartment.

"Party" in Cell. Empty soft drink bottles and glasses testified to a "party" in the luxury cell which included, besides the bed and shower, two tables and chairs, a radio, plenty of reading matter and food.

Searchers found slender Lucille Turner, of Asheville, N. C., hiding behind the shower curtain in Dean's suite Saturday. She had been there, Dean said blandly, "for three or four hours."

Police, not amused by disclosure of the romance that blossomed behind their backs, pursued a quiet investigation into the evening call and how it was made possible.

Conflicting Stories. Miss Turner, inmate of the women's detention cells on the eighth floor of police headquarters, made their task more difficult by offering conflicting versions of the jail cell romance.

She told first how she had climbed through a window and up one story by means of the protective grill work that lines each window of the cell blocks. She said, she said, responded to Dean's vocal invitation to "Come up and see me some time."

On the ninth floor, the girl said, she crawled through another window and found herself in Dean's room. Later she confounded authorities with her tale of having used the prisoner's elevator to ascend from the eighth floor to the ninth—a story she subsequently denied in returning to the first version.

Shortly after 7:30 Saturday night, Lucille was reported missing from the eighth floor. Search of all cells revealed no trace. Dean, gallantly refraining from intimate comment on the rendezvous, said that Lucille had hid behind the shower curtain each time the guard approached.

Finally, searchers pulled aside the shower curtain to find the trembling girl.

$430,000 DINNER

Democrats Asked To Eat Up Party Deficit.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—(AP)—A. Forbes Morgan, treasurer of the Democratic national committee, appealed to loyal Democrats tonight to help off a $430,000 party debt by attending victory dinners throughout the country March 4.

President Roosevelt will address a $100-a-plate-dinner in Washington and his speech will be broadcast to all of the other dinners. Prices range downward from the Washington $100 top.

Morgan said in a radio address that the President will outline what "he hopes to accomplish in the next four years."

Edward Makes Trip To Southern Austria

VIENNA, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Edward, Duke of Windsor, departed by train today for a visit in southern Austria, the first major journey he has made since arriving in his Austrian exile.

The Duke planned to spend a day at the castle of his friend Count Paul Fuenster at Noetich, Carinthia, short-distance from the Italian border, and return to Vienna in time to greet his brother, the Duke of Kent, who is scheduled to arrive Wednesday.

Considerable speculation was stirred by the former British monarch's sudden journey. The round-trip takes 16 hours.

ATLANTA TAX RETURNS GAIN OVER LAST YEAR

Personal Property Valuations Far Ahead of February Listing in 1936.

Valuations on personal property returned by more than 20,000 Atlantans during the first 20 days of February were 36 per cent more than for the entire month of February in 1936, the city board of tax assessors announced yesterday while Mayor Hartsfield prepared to present the city's legislative program to the Fulton and DeKalb delegations today.

Returns and valuations since February 1, when tax books opened, have far exceeded the number and amount for all of February last year, lending encouragement to booming business predictions, according to J. C. Little, Leo Sudduth and J. Sid Tiller, the tax assessors.

Little said valuation of personal property as given in this year exceeded the valuations of the month in 1936 by $2,397,728. The number of returns increased from about 13,000 in February last year to nearly 21,000 yesterday.

Though the outlook for gain in personal property returns was bright, the increase in this particular source of revenue for the city could not and does not materially affect the city's financial circumstances, it was pointed out.

Legislation proposed for the city by Mayor Hartsfield and the municipal legislature committee is designed to raise $1,412,000 additional annual revenue, which includes a proposed increase in the city ad valorem tax rate from 15 mills to 17.5 mills, or from $1.50 to $1.75 per $100 in property valuation.

The mayor said yesterday that the entire program, which is drawn in two parts, is designed to raise revenue and legislation designed to place and keep the city on a cash basis, will be turned over to the two delegations before tonight. It is expected the program will be introduced in the legislature before the end of the week.

Yesterday, tax assessors paused to estimate that as of February 20 more than 20,000 Atlantans have returned personal property valuations at $5,041,963 as compared with $6,644,235 for February, 1936. Total valuation of personal property last year amounted to approximately $105,000,000.

Assessments on real estate are the same as last year but more persons have made returns earlier than usual.

JOHN Q. BOWDEN PASSES ON TRAIN

Veteran Railroad Employee Was on Way Here From New York.

John Quincy Bowden, 68, a railroad employee for nearly a century, died in his berth on a train yesterday en route to his home here from New York.

His death was discovered early yesterday afternoon as the train neared Cornelia, Ga. He had been employed by the Georgia railroad for 15 years and was chief clerk to the master mechanic of the Atlanta Joint Terminal.

Before going with the Georgia road he was connected with the N. C. & St. L. for more than 30 years. His home was at 576 Ashby street, S. W. Mr. Bowden had been to New York to visit his granddaughter, Miss Catherine Close. He had been in ill health for about three months.

Born in west Tennessee, he had been a resident of Atlanta for 45 years. He was a deacon in the West End Baptist church.

Other survivors include a brother, R. C. Bowden, of Louisville, Ky. Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the West End Baptist church, with the Rev. M. A. Cooper and the Rev. H. B. Wade officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery under the direction of Brandon-Bond-Condor.

PWA POWER TEST TO START ALL OVER

'Buzzard Roost' Case Right Back Where It Was Two Years Ago.

ROCK HILL, S. C., Feb. 22.—(AP) Back where it started almost two years ago, the argument over the constitutionality of the Greenwood county Public Works Administration project for a $2,852,000 hydro-electric development at Buzzard Roost on the Saluda river will come before Judge J. Lyles Glenn here tomorrow. Attorneys for the Duke Power Company, of Charlotte, prepared to renew their contention that the use of federal funds to build a competing plant in a territory it already serves in conflict with the constitutional "due process" guarantee.

On the other hand, counsel for Greenwood county and for the PWA were ready to try to convince Judge Glenn that there was ample authority for the proposal under the "public welfare" clause of the constitution.

Both sides expect no final decision until after the United States supreme court acts. The question was taken to the supreme court upon a writ of certiorari recently, but that body declined to pass upon the issue.

ATLANTAN SUCCEEDED BY BOSTON MINISTER

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Feb. 22.—(AP)—Delegates to the Southern Union Conference of the Seventh Day Adventist church voted today to support the proposal of the general conference to hold an international young men's congress at Blue Ridge, N. C., from August 10 to 16, and an international educational convention there August 17 to 26.

The Rev. B. M. Preston, of Boston, was named secretary of the Southern Union Conference's missionary board, succeeding the Rev. R. G. Strickland, of Atlanta, who has resigned to accept a similar post at Boston as secretary of the Atlantic Union Conference.

Harry Demmon, of Birmingham, president of the Alabama Temperance Alliance and director of the campaign against legalized liquor, said today he expected virtually every county in the state to be represented at the meeting.

Birmingham and Montgomery ministers will speak at the temperance rally, and county chairmen will report on sectional repeal opposition.

Prohibition literature will be distributed and plans for county campaigns discussed, Demmon said.

Georgia Is Fourth In Cotton Spindles

Georgia was listed in fourth place in the number of cotton spindles in operation during January, the Federal Bureau of the Census reported yesterday. The state had 3,311,670 spindles in place, of which 3,074,702 were active. Leading Georgia in activities were North Carolina, South Carolina and Massachusetts in the order named.

FOREIGN 'HOT MONEY' STIRS STOCK EXPERTS

Brokers Say Liquidations of Huge Holdings Will Begin Market 'Crash.'

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—Foreign gold, flooding into this country at the pace of more than $2,000,000 a day, has affected importantly the behavior of American security markets, a number of Wall street experts agreed today.

In an average session of the New York Stock Exchange, several representative brokers estimated, from five to 10 per cent of the transactions result from the play of so-called "hot money."

On some active days in recent months, some believed, foreign funds may be responsible for as much as 25 per cent of the turnover of stocks and bonds.

Turned Attention. To devise means of taming the nearly $8,000,000,000 in alien capital in the United States and make it harmless to the balance of American markets, three branches of the federal government have turned their attention. In Washington the treasury, securities and exchange commission and federal reserve board are at work on a concerted plan to deal with the continued flow of money from abroad into American investment markets.

Rapid liquidation of this huge sum and subsequent repatriation to the lands of its origin might, they are said to feel, provoke a major disturbance in our markets.

Wall street brokers and bankers mostly express the view that save in the case of a major war, the danger of such a disturbance is remote. By far the largest portion of the nearly $6,000,000,000 of foreign money actually represented in stocks and bonds is not "hot" money at all, but rather investment funds, sent here because of the opportunities for long-term appreciation, they say.

Such money, Wall street brokers believe, will not be frightened easily into flight. So long as American industry prospers normally and presents investors with a steady stream of returns this capital is likely to continue here, they declare.

Bankers pointed out that, while the rate of inflow has been greater in the last two years than in the past, much of the investment capital from abroad has been here for years.

One big New York commission house cherishes a foreign agent that has been in Wall street for seven generations. Its partners estimate 90 per cent of its customers abroad are investors for long-range in our markets. Neither lands brokers, protesting a proposed United States tax on foreign funds, pointed out their country has been a consistent investor in this country for 150 years.

Seizure of Balances. Should a major war break out, however, the first action of the country involved, Wall Street experts explain, might well be seizure of balances held by their nationals abroad in an effort to make use of all possible capital in the prosecution of hostilities. This would presumably involve heavy selling of stocks and bonds in American markets, with rapid fall of prices. A cushion must be found to prevent such a sell-off, they assert.

The actual amount that might be involved in wholesale repatriation of funds is hard to determine. Bankers pointed out that while it is estimated the original sum involved is somewhere between $7,000,000,000 and $8,000,000,000, the rise in value of stocks and bonds in the last 30 months has greatly augmented the total quoted value.

The velocity of capital imports to this country has increased since devaluation of the dollar. The Securities and Exchange Commission found in a study of fund movements that between January 1, 1935, and September 30, 1936, there was a net influx of $2,251,659,000, of which $905,429,000 went into the hands of investors in short-term banking balances and $25,158,000 into brokerage accounts. Between September 30 and February 17, of this year, a little less than five months, $257,998,000 in gold has poured in, with no balancing exports.

Influx Curb Plans. Many proposals have been made for curbing this inflow. The government already has acted to cushion its effect on the credit structure by "sterilizing" gold imports, that is, preventing them from being used as a credit base. A "withholding tax" of 10 per cent on dividends and interest due foreigners was enacted to insure the treasury a share of the profits made in our markets.

Some economists have suggested a stiff tax, of 20 per cent or more, on capital imports. Others would double the present withholding tax and others still have proposed a special capital gains tax to cut foreigners' profits from American securities.

Some decision on the matter is expected shortly as a result of conferences between representatives of the government agencies the next week. "The actual effect of 'hot money' of recent weeks can not readily be determined because of the difficulty of tracing its movements. Some Wall Street commission houses, with wide connections abroad, have held that for several months buying by foreigners has exceeded selling by approximately 10 per cent."

Others have found the balance between purchases and sales more nearly equalized. Virtually all agree foreign capital has been active.

METAL PRICES SOAR ON ARMS PLAN BOVING

LONDON, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Prices leapt spectacularly on the London Metal Exchange today as the nations of Europe began to scramble in a big way for metals brokers, showing a picture of war materials. Germany was prominent among the buyers.

The price of tin rose $30 a ton to approximately $1,245 a ton, the highest since 1925 and a rise of about $107 a ton since Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, announced plans for the loan to finance Britain's huge armament program just eight business days ago.

Feverish buying by both speculative interests and industrial quarters, helped by a brisk demand from the United States, where markets were closed, caused copper to jump as much as $30 a ton during the day to $349 a ton.

Traders and brokers, showing a prescience in their efforts to execute the seemingly unending stream of orders, envisaged the return of inflated World War prices when copper touched $765 a ton.

800,000 RAIL WORKERS ARE SHAPING DEMANDS FOR INCREASED WAGES

500,000 Others, Who Actually Man Trains, Have Already Acted on Pay.

By the Associated Press.

Spokesmen for 16 railway brotherhoods, claiming a membership of 800,000 "non-operating" railroad workers, shaped a request for a pay increase yesterday.

They discussed the move at Chicago—where the heads of the five "operating" brotherhoods, representing the 500,000 men who man the nation's trains, recently approved a demand for a 20 per cent wage increase.

At the same time, employee and employer alike studied the United Automobile Workers' announced plan to ask the Chrysler corporation for recognition as sole bargaining agency for its 77,000 employees in nine cities. A similar move by the union led to the widespread strike in the plants of the General Motors Corporation. Grievances left unsettled when that dispute was terminated were under discussion by representatives of both sides at Detroit.

Governor Assaults C. I. O.
Hoffman Assaults C. I. O.
Governor Harold Hoffman, of New Jersey, coupled a warning that he would not tolerate "sit-down" strikes with an attack on the Committee for Industrial Organization—the spearhead of unionization drives in the automotive, steel and oil industries.

The C. I. O. charged in a radio address, claimed "governmental blessing as it seizes private property, defies the law and denies the authority of the remaining 98 per cent of our people."

At Detroit, President Walter Fry, of the Fry Products Company, continued his "sit-down" demonstration in protest against the "sit-down" strike of his 188 employees through the fourth day. The "boss sit-downer" refused to dicker with a United Automobile Workers' organizer on the grounds he was a total stranger.

Agree to Confer.
Officials of the Pansteel Metallurgical Corporation, whose plant has been held six days by "sit-down" strikers, agreed to hold a peace conference at Springfield today with Governor Henry Horner and representatives of the strikers.

R. J. Altchison, president of the company, specified, however, that only the actual strikers would be permitted to present their case at the conference.

Union leaders would not comment immediately on whether the strikers would accept the terms of the conference or would attend. The leaders conferred with the approximately 80 workers entrenched in two of the firm's factories in North Chicago.

Proxies employed by 82 wholesale dry goods dealers in New York picked the headquarters of their employees' union—contending the unionists refused to bargain collectively.

Seven Factories Held.
"Sit-down" strikers held seven Detroit factories. Another, the Michigan Steel Casting Company, closed its plant after 200 workers voted to seek a 40-hour week and a wage boost.

Agreements stipulating higher pay went 500 men back to duty at four pottery plants in the Zanesville (Ohio) area and 275 back to their jobs at the Freedland shirt factory in Hazelton, Pa. Their differences apparently resolved in conference, striking Baltimore taxi drivers also returned to their cabs.

Pickets patrolled the Braeburn (Pa.) Steel Corporation. They sought recognition of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers' Union, a C. I. O. affiliate.

8 PRISONERS ESCAPE IN 2 DARING BREAKS

and a friend, Coy Elliott, of Lithonia, at bay as they made their escape.

Threaten To Shoot Sheriff.
Pattillo threatened to shoot the sheriff and his son as Maddox and Duncan went out a side door on Herling street where a blue sedan with the key in the switch evidently had been planted for them.

Sheriff Hall, his son and brother-in-law and Elliott prevented the remaining nine prisoners in the exercise pen from escaping but all were bruised in a desperate hand-to-hand fight. Hall was dragged into the cell by the prisoners but fought his way out and he and the others closed and locked the cell door. Not a shot was fired and no one was seriously injured.

Sheriff Hall said a man visited one of the prisoners in the cell shortly before the break and it was reported five white men had been seen on Herling street by a negro at approximately the same time as the visit. It was believed they left the get-away car for Duncan, Maddox and Pattillo.

The break from the Pandling chain gang was just as sensational, guards at the camp reported.

Guards Slugged.
The five youthful prisoners slugged Guards Dan Jones and R. A. Cooper as they and three other prisoners rode back to work on a new highway between Dallas and Villa Rica after lunch yesterday.

A negro trusty, forced by the five to drive the highway truck after the convicts secured a shot gun and two pistols from the guard, wrecked the machine against a telephone pole in an attempt to prevent the break.

Kirkland, Bryant, Williams, Price and Turner, with threatening guns, forced the negro trusty and two other convicts, whose names could not be learned, to accompany them nearly a mile through the woods about but released them unharmed. The trusty and the other two returned to the convict camp alone.

Guards Jones and Cooper called the state highway camp for bloodhounds and the dogs took up the trail where the desperadoes abandoned the wrecked truck. They followed the winding trail for several hours but lost trace of the fugitives toward mid-afternoon, it was reported.

The Pandling convicts were heard by guards to say they intended to steal up a motorist and get a car as quickly as possible.

Convicts Separate.
Before the trail of the quietest faded, the five split and two started eastward from Villa Rica while the other three walked west from the new highway leading from Dallas to Villa Rica.

Guards at the camp praised the efforts of the negro trusty to prevent the escape by risking his life in wrecking the heavy highway truck. Cooper, who had returned to the highway camp located a mile from Dallas, said last night neither he nor Jones was hurt. Jones had not returned from the hunt at a late hour.

Officials of the camp warned motorists to be on the lookout for the convicts, who were described as desperate roustas.

Here's How Boss Sit-Downer Sits Down

Workers who went on a sit-down strike in the plant of Fry Products, Inc., at Detroit, haven't got a thing on Walter L. Fry, president of the company which manufactures automobile seat covers. He is seen in the midst of a sit-down strike at his own in his office. He plans to keep right on sitting down so long as his employees remain in the factory. "Labor needs management as much as capital needs labor," he explains.

Elliot restrained him for safety's sake, it was said.

As the three made their break, the others in the exercise pen attempted to follow suit but as they came into the sheriff's office he, his son, Wynn and Elliott engaged in a hand-to-hand combat with the nine, fighting for several minutes.

Prisoners dragged the sheriff into the cell but the four rallied to beat them off and prevent the escape of more than twice their number.

Fulton County Notified.
Sheriff Hall and his men dashed to cars after notifying Decatur, DeKalb, Atlanta and Fulton county police of the break by radio, and followed Pattillo, Duncan and Maddox.

Witnesses to the escape reported the three headed toward Atlanta but they were lost within a short time in the maze of city streets.

Sheriff Hall reported the others in the exercise pen with the three when the break was made were Jack Go-lightly, held for robbery and murder; J. E. Pattillo, reported to be a brother of G. W. Pattillo, who was arrested in connection with the Lee Baking Company robbery, also; Clarence Hart, Claude Dickens and J. B. Kimbrell, held for robbery charges; Huie Teal and Grover Galloway, arrested for burglary, and J. B. Foster, charged with possession and transportation of whisky.

DeKalb detectives said Duncan was arrested as a suspect in a large auto theft ring which local and federal officers several weeks ago broke up.

Eighteen automobiles allegedly stolen by members of the gang had been recovered and seven other persons arrested, it was said.

Pattillo and Maddox were captured by officers shortly after the Lee Baking Company had been robbed of more than $800 in cash and checks one morning in February, it was said. They had been bound over to the grand jury and bonds for each were set at $1,700. Pattillo's brother was said to have been an employee of the baking company and detectives declared he was the "finger man." His bond is set at $500.

Officers at the DeKalb jail said the barber who had just completed shaving several of the dozen prisoners in the exercise pen was a well-known resident of Decatur and had frequently been called upon to work in the jail.

The exercise pen is located on the first floor of the DeKalb jail only a short distance from Hall's office.

CURLEY ENTERS RACE FOR MAYOR OF BOSTON

BOSTON, Feb. 22.—(UP)—Former Governor James M. Curley, veteran 62-year-old political figure, late today formally announced he would seek his fourth term as mayor of Boston next November.

Curley and his bride, the former Mrs. Gertrude Marion Dennis, returned last Friday from a month's wedding trip.

A former congressman and three times mayor of Boston, he was defeated as a candidate for United States senator in the November election.

REP. JAMES P. BUCHANAN.

JAMES P. BUCHANAN DIES OF HEART ATTACK

the chairmanship's arduous duties to other committee members.

Buchanan's fatal heart attack was foreshadowed as far back as January, 1936.

At that time he spent three consecutive nights until after midnight, in a dentist's chair. A short time later his heart began troubling him and he went to the hospital for three weeks.

Cough Develops.
Apparently recovered, he returned to his desk again to tackle his tremendous job. A bronchial cough developed.

With the beginning of the present congress, Buchanan told friends he was more nervous and tired than usual, but continued his work. He was stricken suddenly today and taken to Naval hospital.

Buchanan is survived by his widow and one son, James P. Buchanan Jr. Only nine house members have served longer than Buchanan. He was elected April 6, 1913, to succeed Albert Sidney Burleson, whom President Wilson appointed postmaster general and the tenth Texas district sent him back in each election thereafter.

Succed Byrus.
He took the chairmanship of the house appropriations committee at the start of the seventy-third congress in March, 1933, when the late Speaker Joseph W. Byrus relinquished that post to become Democratic floor leader.

Never noted as an orator, Buchanan spoke in a voice which sometimes failed to carry across the house chamber. Frequently he drowned out a point by smacking his right hand into the palm of his left with a report like a pistol shot.

Visitors to his office in the capitol often found him curled up in a swivel chair, feet crossed atop his desk. A cigar usually switched from one side of his mouth to the other as he spoke.

Read Dime Novels.
His infrequent relaxation took two principal forms: one was to lose himself in a gaudy-colored dime novel of the west—"the wilder and woollier the better," he once said.

The other was an informal discussion of government problems at a late-night "session" with colleagues in the lobby of a hotel on Capitol Hill.

Buchanan seldom took a vacation, and to his strenuous committee duties was added recently the chairmanship of the house committee created to study President Roosevelt's plans for reorganization of the government.

Born in South Carolina.
He was born in South Carolina in 1864, the son of a wealthy plantation owner who thought the south would win the Civil War. Afterward, the elder Buchanan started back to his home but learned some persons accused him of being a spy and he decided to leave the state.

The father headed west by one route and Mrs. Buchanan and her children went another. At the age of eight, James P. Buchanan was picking cotton on rented acres in central Texas.

After graduating from the University of Texas with a law degree, he became county attorney of Washington county, Texas, and later served in the Texas legislature.

Bankhead Grieved.
Advised of Buchanan's death, Speaker Bankhead said he was "distressed and grieved that such a useful and courageous man has passed."

"I can hardly find words to express my admiration and respect for him," he said.

Representative Rayburn, Democrat, Texas, house majority leader, said: "He was a man of fine ability and rendered great service to his state and country."

"He is a martyr to his work," commented Representative Taylor.

"He killed himself by taking on entirely too much work. He was a noble character, one of the best chairmen our committee ever had. None ever exceeded him in diligence, work and energy."

Telephone Official Named To Fill Tiller's Place by Fulton Relief Group.

T. Barton Baird, official of the telephone company, yesterday was named chairman of the Fulton board of public welfare to succeed J. Sid Tiller, tax assessor, who resigned.

Baird assumed office as head of the voluntary welfare board as another crisis in funds for emergency relief to be administered during March by the Fulton department of public welfare impends.

The board, which met yesterday at the courthouse, again selected Hugh C. Couch as its secretary and treasurer.

Plans for a stricter administration of emergency relief were laid by the board, which is faced with forced closing on March 1 unless the city provides funds to match money donated by Fulton county.

In order to make ends meet financially, the board voted to curtail its activities by purging its relief rolls even closer of persons who might be classed as employables, and to require

British Crew Asks F.D.R. To Bar Cargo

BOSTON, Feb. 22.—(P)—The crew of the British freighter Linaria today appealed to President Roosevelt to prohibit the ship from carrying nitrate from the United States to war-torn Spain.

The message: "We, the crew of the British ship Linaria, appeal to you as America's greatest leader, to help us in our attempt to follow neutrality law of non-intervention in Spain by preventing shipping of nitrate from Hopedale, Va., to Seville. We respect British neutrality and our articles do not include intervening in Spain's civil strife."

Rebels hold Seville.

Two years' residence in Fulton county as a requisite for relief, instead of one year.

The department of public welfare distributes relief to approximately 10,000 persons who are classed as unemployed.

New members of the board, selected by the county commissioners last week, are Miss Bessie Kempton, Roy Wallace, Councilman C. M. (Mac) Bolen and Councilman John A. White.

Sensation Is Furnished By George Washington

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 22.—(P)—George Washington furnished a mild sensation in police court today.

George, a negro, was in custody charged with the theft of pipe from a vacant house.

Patrolmen Tate and Frick told the court, a hatchet had been used to dismantle the plumbing.

Justice Elton Folkes remanded George until March 17 after officers said they arrested him on suspicion and wanted to hold him for further investigation.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 22.—(UP)—Twelve persons were sentenced in federal court here tonight on charges resulting from alleged "bucket shop" operations in Chicago, Wilmington, Del., Atlanta and New Orleans.

The case involved Turivas & Company, Inc., and 22 individuals in indictments returned here in 1935. All 12 pleaded guilty or nolo contendere.

The government charged 22 men with operating 1,100 accounts for buyers of stocks, selling $283,273.23 of stock the company did not own. Allegedly shifting from stock to stock and finally reporting to investors they had been wiped out.

Judge William H. Atwell, of Dallas, Texas, sentenced Sidney H. Gittleman, of Chicago, alleged "brains" of operations to two years in Atlanta federal prison with a $5,000 fine.

A severance was asked for four other indicted persons: Miss Marion Selzer, secretary, and Herman Wendorf, auditor, in the Chicago offices; Sidney L. Cohen and Kenneth L. Davidson. The four were to have been government witnesses had the case gone to trial.

All persons who obtained severances were listed as of Chicago, except Davidson, of Atlanta.

Masonic Club's President CHIANG OFFERS REDS NEW START IN CHINA

Co-operation of All Patriots Is Aim of Nation's Generalissimo.

NANKING, Feb. 22.—(P)—General Chiang Kai-shek, China's premier, announced tonight the government is framing new regulations which will permit China's Communists "to start life anew."

In a formal statement the generalissimo assured the public the government is making every effort to obtain the co-operation of all patriots ready to serve the nation.

The statement was an amplification of the recent action of the central executive committee of the Kuomintang (National party), which offered peace to the Communists it has been fighting for a decade.

The Communists, outlawed since 1927, now occupy considerable areas in Shensi and Kansu provinces. One demand of the Rebels who rose against the Nanking government at Sianfu December 12 was that the Communists be readmitted to a place in the life of the nation to permit unification of all elements for opposition to Japan.

General Chiang recently has backed that demand.

The generalissimo's statement, which came after conclusion of a plenary session of the central executive committee, foreshadowed a more liberal government policy, especially toward Nanking's recent political foes.

He urged freedom of speech and pardons for all political offenders. "And by political offenders I mean the Communists," he explained.

Although deciding to promote national unity against foreign aggression in the Kuomintang committee held out an offer of conciliation to Japan. In a manifesto it expressed willingness to readjust China's relations with Japan "on the basis of mutual respect for territorial integrity."

But while offering Japan "any possibility of peace" the party leaders affirmed China's determination to continue non-recognition of acts of aggression and refusal to sign any agreement detrimental to her sovereignty.

Johnnie Wee Woods, owner of a truck which was allegedly operated by LeRoy Grant November 21 on Bankhead highway without Johnnie's consent, was on the witness stand in Fulton criminal court yesterday.

Judge Jesse Wood was seeking details of the case.

"Well, was the truck damaged while in the possession of LeRoy?"

"Mr. Judge, he only bumped into a post with it. (Pause). It caught fire then and burned up."

LeRoy drew a sentence of six months on the chain gang.

General Chiang recently has backed that demand.

HOUSE BODY APPROVES MEASURE TO REGULATE SOFT COAL INDUSTRY

Compliance Tax Increased
From 13 1-2 Per Cent to 19 1-2 Per Cent.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Legislation to revise federal regulation of the soft coal industry, one of its first major tests in the new congress today.

The house ways and means committee voted, 19 to 6, to approve a revised version of the invalidated Guffey-Vinson coal law.

The committee members said, incorporated in it even sharper enforcement teeth than the old act contained. It increased a so-called compliance tax from 13 1-2 per cent to 19 1-2 per cent. This tax would apply to the sale price of coal at the mines of producers violating the act.

Excise Tax Cut.
The committee reduced from one and one-half percent to one-half percent, however, an excise tax designed to provide funds for administration. Coal experts said this would save the industry approximately $8,000,000 annually, compared with the cost of the former law. All producers would be subject to the half per cent tax.

Price-Fixing Lies at the Heart of the New Measure. It provides creation of 23 district price-fixing boards empowered to establish minimum prices for coal produced in their areas. Such prices would be subject to review by the National Bituminous Coal Commission, which also would be empowered to fix maximum prices if necessary to protect consumers.

Bargaining Policy.
In place of the labor-relating provisions of the original Guffey act, upon which the supreme court based its invalidation of that statute, the new bill contains simply a statement of collective bargaining policy.

From the ways and means committee, it will go shortly to the house floor.

Chairman Charles S. Heford Jr., of the National Bituminous Coal Commission, termed the revised bill much stronger than its predecessor.

PONTIFF IS REPORTED DEFINITELY RECOVERING

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 22.—(AP)—The Pope's chamberlain today removed from the Vatican anteroom a register in which visitors have inscribed their hopes for the pontiff's recovery, indicating the holy father is believed definitely convalescent.

Well informed relatives insisted the Pope intends to attend both holy Thursday and Good Friday services in the Sistine chapel.

Recurrent pains in his ulcerated legs disturbed the pontiff's rest over the week end. He granted audiences, however, to several cardinals and Vatican officials today.

Catholic Bishop Hits Court Reform As An Invasion of Parental Rights

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 22.—(AP)—Bishop Edmund F. Gibbons, of the Albany Catholic diocese, assailed the proposed federal child labor amendment today as "an unwarranted invasion of parental rights and a menace to the real welfare of millions of children throughout the entire nation."

"We may be charged with ultra-conservatism," the bishop told a legislative committee. "But menaces of alarming proportions to religion and morality, the family, the home, the child, the workingman, the capitalist, the businessman, and the lawfully constituted government itself, demand that we be conservative."

Must Condemn Plan.
"Give us a measure which, while aiming to reform social evils and correct economic injustices, does not by its broadness and excess of power lead to far greater evils, and we will be for it to a man. But this proposal we must condemn."

Bishop Gibbons was one of nearly 1,000 businessmen, jurists, educators, women voters and clergymen who jammed every nook and corner of the vast assembly chamber in the capitol to attack and defend the proposal for ratification.

He read statements from several Catholic bishops, condemning the proposed amendment, as well as one from the Rev. Warren A. Candler, bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

The committee heard widely varying views on the proposed amendment, termed on one hand, an essential humanitarian measure, and on the other, a total perversion of a correct method for handling the problem of real child labor.

Humanitarian Plan.
Representative Hamilton Fish, Republican, New York, called the amendment "a humanitarian measure essential for the protection of American children from exploitation."

The National Child Labor Committee also filed statements in favor of ratification from Warden Lewis E. Lawes, of Sing Sing prison, United States Attorney General Homer Cummings and A. H. McCormick, New York city correction commissioner.

4 'Bruised' Youths Jailed For Pinching Girl's Cheek
NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Four young men who allegedly "pinched the cheeks" of a young woman passenger in a subway train and annoyed her by making "coy remarks" were in jail today—bruised and disheveled after being belabored by other passengers.

Police said the motorman and conductor on the crowded Astoria line car came to the woman's aid, and that the four youths started a fight.

Then, the police said, several dozen passengers joined in the fray, whacking the young men soundly.

To Magistrate Alvin Sylvester, who imposed a $50 fine on each of the four, they gave their names as James Quinn, 19; Matthew Lozcalzo, 20; William Fricault, 19, and James Fitzgerald, 18, all of New York.

Unable to pay they went to jail, the first two for five days, and the others for two days.

TEACHERS URGED TO OPPOSE WARS

Licensing of Arms Makers,
Mobilization of Financial,
Material Resources Asked

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Ten thousand school teachers were told tonight they could aid materially in abolishing wars, fighting dictatorship and preserving educational democracy.

United States Senator Josh Lee, of Oklahoma, said fighting among nations should be held to a minimum by controlling military preparation, equalizing the burdens of conflict and removing the profits.

J. W. Studebaker, United States commissioner of education, said one of 10 major problems facing education was the "conflict between dictatorship and democracy."

Senator Lee said teachers should be vitally concerned with preventing war because the youths they spent years educating could be killed so quickly on the battlefield.

He advocated licensing of munitions makers, universal mobilization of financial and material resources in times of war and conscription of "100 per cent of all war profits."

6,000 BABY CHICKENS ARE BURNED TO DEATH

GULFPORT, Miss., Feb. 22.—(AP)—Six thousand baby chicks, in their brooders, burned to death Saturday night in a fire at the A. W. Mandel place, it was reported today.

Eight hundred other chicks were saved from the flames. The fire was whipped from brooder to brooder by a high wind.

Mr. Mandel estimated his loss at $5,000.

SENATE STUDY BEGINS ON SECURITY RESERVE

Group Debates Paying Interest on $47,000,000, 000 Fund.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—(AP)—The senate finance committee ordered a study today to see if it is necessary for the social security system to accumulate a reserve fund of $47,000,000,000.

It has been estimated that the reserve will reach that figure by 1980 if the present law remains unchanged. Some critics have maintained that such a reserve would be unnecessary and unmanageable.

The committee directed three of its members, Chairman Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi; Senator Byrd, Democrat, Virginia, and Senator Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan, to join with Social Security Board officials in setting up an advisory council composed of disinterested experts to make a study of the old-age pension section of the act.

Interview Officials.
Senator Vandenberg was supported by Senator Byrd in seeking the study as the committee interviewed social security officials on the subject.

Vandenberg said the board officials agreed with the committee that the full reserve program was a problem that could not be ignored. He added that Chairman A. J. Altmyer, of the security board, and other board witnesses expressed willingness to have the study made.

Vandenberg presented to the committee, and later to the senate, a list of presidents of 60 insurance companies who he said were unanimous in agreeing "a full reserve plan is not necessary, and the government pension can be operated on a pay-as-you-go basis with a more intelligent fund."

The Situation.
Vandenberg said it would be easier for the taxpayer to meet the needs of each year than to accumulate the reserve and then pay interest on it.

He and other Republicans have presented a resolution calling on the Security Board to submit to congress a plan for either increasing federal old-age benefits or reducing payroll taxes. The resolution also calls for extension of benefits to groups now excluded, such as domestic servants and farm-ers.

Altmyer told the committee it would be possible, under this plan, to start old-age benefits sooner and to pay such benefits in more liberal amounts.

Rural Letter Men To Buy Hickory Hill

"Hickory Hill," home of the late Senator Thomas E. Watson, this spring will become the property of the Georgia Rural Letter Carriers' Association, under plans made yesterday by members meeting in Atlanta. The property is located at Thomson, Ga.

The purchase is planned as a memorial to the "Father of Rural Free Delivery." Gordon Thompson, of Jackson, chairman of the Thomas E. Watson Rural Free Delivery Foundation, said a tentative program for the purchase of the 40-acre tract had been made, and that options had been secured for purchase of the property for $25,000. INNSBRUCK, Austria, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, who employed nine detectives to encircle her as she painted Austrian Alpine scenes because "I didn't want anyone looking over my shoulder," left for home today.

She said—before boarding the train—she had had "five weeks of peace." Her daughter and son-in-law, Princess Juliana and Prince Consort Bernhard—stayed behind for more winter sports.

U. S. TAX IS PROPOSED ON DOG RACE BETTING

Boykin Plans To Amend Bill Imposing Levy on Horse Gaming.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Representative Frank W. Boykin, Mobile, Ala., said today he will amend his bill to place a federal tax of 5 per cent on horse race bets to impose a similar levy on dog race wagers.

The horse race tax bill, which Boykin estimated would bring in $50,000,000 a year, is now before the ways and means committee.

The proposed tax would be collected on all bets, whether placed through bookmakers or the pari-mutuel system.

Boykin said no estimates have yet been prepared to determine the prospective returns of the proposed dog racing tax.

2 SHIP BLAST VICTIMS IN CRITICAL CONDITION

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Feb. 22.—(AP)—Two of the 13 men injured in a five-inch gun explosion on the training ship Wyoming were described by naval physicians as being in a critical condition.

Memorial services were held yesterday for the seven killed in the blast.

Both Private James O. Holland, of Brewton, Ala., and Private Clyde A. Byrd, of East Falls Church, Va., were

'Dead Man' Ambles By And Town Gets 'Het Up'

CHESTERFIELD COURT-HOUSE, Va., Feb. 22.—(AP)—When "Uncle" Nelson Maury ambled by the courthouse today he wondered why people stared so.

County officials in turn wondered how "Uncle" Nelson was able to amble by.

For in the county records was the statement that Nelson Maury was dead. Moreover there was a receipted bill from a negro undertaker showing payment for Nelson's burial.

Officials investigation disclosed there had been a death at Nelson's house, but Nelson, a county relief client, was not the deceased. The dead man was a visitor, foreign to the country, and his estate did not provide for burial. So the man was interred as Nelson Maury.

And "Nelson Maury" is engraved on the tombstone.

STOP THAT COLD THE FIRST DAY!

Give It No Chance to Survive Thru the Use of Half-way Measures!

Distorted Vision SHOULD BE CORRECTED

Many people suffer from distorted vision without realizing the difficulty the eyes have in seeing objects clearly.

This ailment, if given prompt attention, can be relieved by wearing lenses correctly fitted. That service is available here.

Consult our optometrists—Dr. W. S. Young and Dr. S. C. Outlaw—About Your Eyes

A. K. HAWKES COMPANY

☆ Opticians • 83 Whitehall St. ☆

Let no cold get the start on you! The so-called "common cold" is the start of more serious trouble than anything else.

The moment a cold appears, act to kill it, not merely to suppress it! Depend on no half-way measures. A cold, being an internal infection, must be got at from the inside.

Treat a cold with a cold preparation, not with a medicine good for all kinds of ailments.

The treatment you want is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. Bromo Quinine is a cold tablet, made expressly for the treatment of colds.

It is also internal treatment and of four important effects.

First, Bromo Quinine opens the bowels, a desirable step in the treatment of colds.

Second, it checks the infection in the system, a vital step.

Third, it relieves the headache and fever.

Fourth, it tones the system and helps fortify against further attack.

Bromo Quinine tablets now come sugar-coated as well as plain. The sugar-coated are exactly the same as the regular, except that the tablets are coated with sugar for palatability.

Take no chances with any cold! The moment you feel a cold coming on, go right to your druggist for a package of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine.

Begin taking the tablets immediately, two every four hours. That procedure will usually break up a cold the first day and that's the speed you want.

Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful and is safe to take. Ask for, and insist upon, Grove's Bromo Quinine.

The small cost may save you dollars in medical bills.

Eightieth Birthday of Beloved Atlantan Assembles Four Generations of Orr Family

By Sally Farth.

ONE of Atlanta's most prominent and beloved citizens, J. K. Orr Sr., was honored Saturday at a surprise birthday party given by his niece, Mrs. Lee Jordan, at her home on Peachtree street. The occasion marked the 80th birthday of Mr. Orr, and paying him homage on this eventful day were 37 members of the family, most of whom came from Columbus for the celebration. Four generations of the Orr family were gathered together in Mrs. Jordan's lovely home, the last generation being represented by adorable little Bob Vance Jr., the baby son of Frances Orr Vance, granddaughter of Mr. Orr, and Robert Vance. The day was also the birthday of petite Caroline Orr, granddaughter of Mr. Orr, who was nine years old Saturday.

Mr. Orr received so many lovely floral tributes from friends throughout the United States that there was scarcely room for them in the house. Of course each member of the family presented him with a gift which expressed their love and devotion to such an esteemed relative. And a gift that will always be cherished by Mr. Orr is the exquisite silver loving cup given him by his children, and inscribed with the names, J. K. Orr Jr., Caroline Moore Orr, Hattie Orr and Fannie Carter Jordan.

Luncheon was served in the dining room, where 23 of the guests were seated at the beautifully appointed table centered with a graceful arrangement of snapdragons and peonies. Twelve guests were served in the spacious library, where quantities of American Beauty roses beautified the room. There was a perfectly immense birthday cake for the beloved guest of honor, with 80 candles burning upon its elaborately embossed surface. Innumerable toasts were offered to the distinguished, white-haired gentleman who beamed so happily at those gathered about him to do him honor, and there were lots of hugs and kisses for "Grandpappy," as he is fondly called by his adoring grandchildren.

The arrival here tomorrow of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bonham, of Riverside, Conn., recalls former visits of these prominent easterners here as guests of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Slaton. Again they will be guests of the Slatons at Wingfield, their home on Peachtree road.

Atlanta friends regret that the visitors' stay will be limited to only four days, as they are anxious to reach Palm Beach before the winter season reaches its climax at that fashionable resort.

Complying with the request of their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Slaton will forego any lavish entertainment for their visitors, but during their brief stay they will be hosts at a small dinner party on Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Bonham are listed among the east's social leaders and their home at Riverside is one of the handsomest estates in that section. They spend much of their time in New York city, where they maintain an apartment, but each summer finds them ensconced in their Connecticut home, where frequently they entertain at brilliant affairs.

Mrs. Slaton and Mrs. Bonham have been friends for a long number of years, their friendship beginning in Palm Beach, where both were wintering. At that time Mrs. Bonham was Mrs. Valeria Langlois, and Sally recalls that she and Mrs. Slaton traveled abroad together, spending many weeks at the fashionable Carlsbad.

ENJOYING the May-like weather at Sea Island, Ga., are Mr. and Mrs. Clement A. Evans, who are occupying one of the attractive island homes with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Conyngham and Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Kent, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa. All of this group were present for the boxing matches held recently at the Sea Island Casino, and they also attended the dinner-dance, followed by Club Carlo games, at the Sea Island Yacht Club.

Also present for the Yacht Club dinner-dance, which was enjoyed by a capacity group, with others unable to get reservations for dinner coming later and for the games of chance, were Mrs. Francis Gilbert and Mr. and Mrs. Parks Hunt, who attended with a party of friends, and were also at the Yacht Club for the Saturday evening supper-dance.

Mrs. Francis Gilbert is spending several weeks with Judge and Mrs. Price Gilbert at the cottage they are occupying for the season, and is quite popular with members of the younger contingent at this coastal resort. Recently Judge and Mrs. Gilbert and Mrs. Francis Gilbert were tea guests of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene W. Lewis, of Detroit, at their Georgia home, beautiful Hamilton Plantation.

Contract Bridge Wins Interest of Atlanta Debutantes

Pictured above is a quartet of the season's most attractive debutantes, who are, from left to right, Misses Rosemary Manry, Emma Middlebrooks, Laura Maddox and Emily Smith. Since the debut festivities have diminished in number, these young belles play contract bridge, a game in which they excel. Several afternoons each week they gather at one another's homes for an afternoon of this, their favorite game, and the photographer snapped them while they were discussing the latest news and bidding their strongest suits at the same time.

Mrs. Edith Banghart Is Honor Guest.

Mrs. Edith H. Banghart, of Medina, Wash., was central figure at the luncheon given yesterday by Miss Edith Harrison, director of the Garden Center. The table was beautiful with glass bowls filled with red and white roses and blue delphinium and the guests' places were marked with cards decorated with hand-painted cherries, to carry out the patriotic note suggestive of the birthday of George Washington. Mrs. Banghart is a well known and gifted lecturer, whose talk on "Rock Gardens, Construction, Pools, Rock Walls and Plant Materials," followed the luncheon. Colored slides illustrated the lecture which was attended by a large audience of garden-minded women.

Invited to meet the honor guest were Mesdames Donald Hastings, Hal Hentz, Grady Poole, Robert L. Cooney, Valeria Manley, DeSales Harrison, Joseph Winship, Guy Hudson, Lewis Cottingham, Wayne P. Sewell, Frank Neely, Oscar Strauss Jr., Miss Mildred Cabanis, Rix Stafford, Robert Hunt, Edward Van Winkle and Oscar Strauss Jr.

Atlanta Bird Club Changes Meet Date

In future members of the Atlanta Bird Club will meet on the evening of the second Saturday in each month, instead of the previous meeting date. This decision was made at the February meeting of the club, which was held at the Y. M. C. A. lecture hall, Mrs. J. Connor Oliver, president, presiding. May and October meetings time will be variable.

Members and many visitors heard a program presented by members of the Arthur A. Allen Junior Bird Club, and proclaimed the program one of the most interesting ever presented. Roy Owen, president of the Junior club, Eva Robb Chesler, and Guy Friddell, former presidents, of the Junior club gave a summary of the lives of three of the world's most outstanding painters of bird pictures, Louis Agassiz Fuertes, John James Audubon and Alexander Wilson. Mrs. Hugh H. Harris talked about other painters of birds and bird portraits in color were exhibited.

The Camp Highland spring field trip announced by Ray C. Werner, chairman, will be the week-end Saturday and Sunday, May 1-2, and members are asked to set aside that time and make reservations early as possible. A message from Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Godfrey, members of the club now living in Florida, was received by the club.

Visitors present were Miss Gertrude Pollard, Mrs. Elizabeth Irwin Flannery, J. E. Flicker, Bill Griffith, and Mrs. A. L. Chason, Mrs. McGregg or Flanders, Mrs. Ballard Irwin, Mrs. F. A. Smith, Misses Louise Girardeau, Virginia Williams, and Robert Lutzky and others. Roll call of the birds by Miss Berna Jarrard, showed a number of permanent and winter residents and some unusual species seen in the Atlanta area since the previous meeting.

Young Hosts Give Dance for School Set

Billie Folsom and Ernest Hungerford were hosts to a number of their friends of the school set at a dance on Friday evening. The affair was in the nature of a Washington birthday party, with the national color scheme of red, white and blue featuring the decorations.

The young hosts were assisted in entertaining their guests by their mothers, Mrs. W. Folsom and Mrs. E. Hungerford. The beautifully appointed table carried out the Washington birthday motif in the novel decorations. In addition to dancing, games were played, the prizes being wrapped in white and tied with red and blue ribbons.

My Day By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

ALBANY, N. Y., Sunday.—The dinner in Utica on Friday night was like old home week, in some respects. We saw many familiar faces, but remembering the women's meetings in Utica of many years ago, this one took my breath away. Thirteen hundred people, for the most part women, jammed every eating space the hotel could provide.

I do not underestimate, of course, the natural curiosity we all have in the person who happens to be the wife of the President, still the women's organizations in Utica must have increased in influence and numbers during the past few years. It is gratifying to find women so interested in civic questions, and it means, I think, an increase in action along certain lines. I believe women, once they are informed, are more sensitive to certain conditions than men and more apt to translate their knowledge into practical action.

Two quiet days in the country with only a moderate amount of mail following me from Washington, have given me a chance to catch up on sleep and reread a book which I read in snatches to my son, John, when he was home with a slight attack of flu last week. We had much fun over it, for I would read a chapter and then the usher would appear at the door and say, "You next appointment is waiting," or "The tea guests have arrived," and I would drop the book and return to my official duties.

When I came back to John he would have read two or more chapters and new characters would be mentioned which he would have to explain to me. Not a very satisfactory way of reading a novel, but it was such a good one that I had to read it again.

It is called "The Street of the Fishing Cat," by Joan Folde. It is a moving and appealing picture of the life of refugees in Paris who are thrown together in a strange country because of revolution or oppression in their own country. They come from different walks of life, but are drawn together by a common misfortune.

There are characters like the educated Russian, so kind and interested in every member of a poor Hungarian workman's family—the beautiful character of the boy who seemed almost like God to some of them because by his little acts of thoughtfulness he made life interesting and colorful by bringing it something unexpected again.

I know Anna, Klara and Jani, and I feel that I know them to the very heart of their joys and suffer their sorrows and frustrations. Above all, I like the underlying theme that life is all of a piece. I may have more than you have today, but a turn of the wheel of fortune and I may be where you are and my life will not be really changed, for I will feel just as I felt before, and just as you do now. If we could always remember this we would not find it so hard to understand a variety of situations which life is apt to bring us.

Hollywood Today

By SHEILAH GRAHAM.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 22.—Errol Flynn wants to kiss a pretty barnmaid in "The Prince and the Pauper," but Director William Keighley says, "No. I want to keep your character dignified." Flynn, who is playing the part of a boy who is a prince in disguise, is wearing a beret to keep his ears warm. The director, formerly a New York theatrical producer, came to Hollywood six years ago for a three-month vacation. And he has been here ever since. Flynn has left a flunkie behind to complete the picture prior to visiting Brazil.

"It's awful to think I must work five years for the fortune that could be made in two years if I didn't have to give so much to the government," he sighs. When the fortune is a concrete fact, the handsome Irishman will leave Hollywood for good. "I dislike the place," he says, "and only came here to make as much money as possible in as short a time as possible."

Mingling with the crowd of ragged extras are the Mauch twins, Billy and Bobby. One is left-handed, one right. One is shortighted. Apart from these differences, they resemble twin peas in a pod. Bobby—or Billy or Bobby—has a severe cold and is a boy extra. "I've had any close-ups in the picture," "No," replies the infant. "I work."

"Are these on the house?" asks Eddie G. Robinson, helping himself to a cigar from Bette Davis' case. The pair are sitting at the back of a saw-edged limousine in front of a screen on which is flashed a background shot of the street through which they are supposed to be driving. Two men mingle the car—also Bette's crossed-over leg—to give an appearance of speed.

The scene is a long one—and Miss Davis "blows up"—then Robinson, But Director Michael Curtiz keeps calm, merely saying, "Start all over again." After they have started "all over again"—also her temper.

"What can you expect?" she snaps. "I've been talking all day surrounded by stilling salamanders." "You know Bette. She's the nicest girl what we have," soothes the grammar-schooling Curtiz. "Start all over again." Bette forgets her lines again and yells a naughty word. "If you hadn't said that, we could have overlapped," says the director sadly. The next take is successful—and a halt is called to enable the actress to receive medical attention for her sore throat.

"If I were you, I'd take off that lipstick," says Doris Weston to Dick Powell on the sidelines of the "Singing Marine" set. Dick looks foolish, replies, "Oh—yes." Your correspondent wonders what wife Joan Blondell will have to say when she hears of this. Miss Weston repeats the line. Mr. Powell repeats his reaction. It is only a rehearsal for a sequence in the picture. Miss Weston is a newcomer to the screen. She was discovered by a Warner Brothers talent scouting, singing in New York. "She's a mixture of Ruby Keeler and Sonja Henie," he wired his bosses. "Rush her out within six days," telephoned the latter. That was six months ago. "Singing Marine" is her first film.

Powell tells me he is pleased with the notices given his Twentieth Century-Fox picture, "On the Avenue." "But I haven't seen it yet—too busy." "Remembering the difficulties of his own movie debut, Dick gently eddies limousine in front of a screen on which is flashed a background shot of the street through which they are supposed to be driving. Two men mingle the car—also Bette's crossed-over leg—to give an appearance of speed.

Miss Robertson Weds Mr. Cohen

AUGUSTA, Ga., Feb. 22.—The marriage of Miss Anne Robertson and Rodney Cohen Jr. took place on Saturday evening at the home of the bride on The Hill in Augusta. The ceremony was performed by Bishop Middleton S. Barnwell, Rector of the diocese of Georgia, and Mrs. J. P. Hilton. Mrs. Hilton, who rendered the musical program.

The bride entered with her brother, James L. Robertson, and a gown of eggshell tulle, two-piece model, with yoke and Queen Anne collar of rose point lace. Her cap was of rose point lace with a border of seed pearls. Her bouquet was of orange blossoms and white roses. Her ornaments were a string of seed pearls, the gift of the groom's mother, Mrs. C. H. Robertson. The bride's veil was of eggshell tulle, two-piece model, with yoke and Queen Anne collar of rose point lace. Her cap was of rose point lace with a border of seed pearls. Her bouquet was of orange blossoms and white roses. Her ornaments were a string of seed pearls, the gift of the groom's mother, Mrs. C. H. Robertson.

VERDICTS FOR $13,500
GIVEN CRASH VICTIMSFederal Court Juries Find for Plaintiffs in Three Damage Suits.

Verdicts totaling $13,500 were awarded yesterday by two federal district court juries in three suits arising from accidents in and near Atlanta between trucks and automobiles.

Awards of $5,000 each were made to Mrs. Katherine Jamison Singletary, of Atlanta, for the death of her mother, Mrs. M. D. (Gussie) Jamison, and to Harry Harwell Payne, of Macon, for the death of Mrs. J. W. Payne in a crash three miles north of McDonough on the Atlanta highway last July 22. The verdicts were against the Central Mutual Insurance Company, of Chicago, insurers for the S. W. Rumpus Highway Express Company, of Newport, Ky.

Both victims were well known in Atlanta. Mrs. Payne being executive secretary at the time of her death of the Travelers' Aid Society. Mrs. Jamison was her assistant. Both died the day following the crash. Evidence introduced yesterday was to the effect that the truck, operated by Charles Hall, skidded back from the shoulder of the road into the side of the Atlanta's automobile, which had several tons on the opposite shoulder to avoid the truck. It was charged that the truck was equipped with "sick" tires and that the driver had been overworked and was sleepy at the time of the crash. Verdicts were for the full amount requested.

W. W. Ford, former city detective and now a uniform patrolman, was awarded a verdict of $3,500 in another suit against the George A. Hornum Company. Another defendant, Miss Gwendolyn Ramsey, for held free of responsibility for Ford's injuries. Ford suffered foot and leg injuries when he was struck by a truck driven by an automobile operator, Harry Ramsey, at Piedmont avenue and Harris street last April. The automobile was thrown against a shed, one of the supports breaking off and striking Ford.

Barbara Bell Patterns

YOUTHFUL DAYTIME FROCK
WITH NOVEL GATHER-
TRIMMING.

A daytime frock with distinctly different ideas is this one for sizes between 32 and 44. A cleverly laid out pattern gives sleeves and yoke all in one piece, which simplifies the sewing. Then the resulting neckline and wide sleeves with box pleat at the shoulder line, make very becoming details. Gather under the yoke are repeated in the delightfully different pockets. To give the gathers their due, try a sheer material, voile or dotted swiss, or something soft like shantung.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1832-B is available for sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 38 requires just 5 yards 35-inch material.

Price of pattern 15 cents. Do not send stamps.

Send 15 cents for the Barbara Bell spring and summer pattern book. Make yourself attractive, practical and becoming clothes, selecting designs from the Barbara Bell well-planned, easy-to-make patterns. Interesting and exclusive fashions for little children and the difficult junior age; slenderizing, well-cut patterns for the mature figure, afternoon dresses for the most particular young women and matrons and other patterns for special occasions are all to be found in the Barbara Bell pattern book.

CROPS ROTATION
PROGRAM URGEDTritt Calls for Long-Time
Plan to Conserve Soil Fertility.

Fulton farmers were urged to adopt a long-time crops rotation program to conserve the vitality of their soil at a meeting of the county cotton crop conservation committee yesterday.

Under the proposed program, farmers would plant one-third of their acreage in cotton, one-third in grain and corn, and one-third in soil-conserving crops. Each succeeding year, the crops would be rotated so that cotton would be planted on a given tract only once every three years.

During the afternoon, the committee discussed the 1937 soil conservation program for Fulton county, a program substantially the same as in 1936. The committee received $100,000 under the government program.

Beginning March 1, meetings will be held in various sections of the county to explain the new program to farmers. S. D. Tritt, county farm agent, announced.

ROCKETTES GET OUTDOOR ACTIVITY.

What is probably the healthiest bunch of girls in the United States work seven days a week. These girls report for work at 10 o'clock in the morning and quit at 10:45 in the evening four days a week, and the other three days they work from one in the afternoon until the same quitting time.

These girls, who radiate health and beauty, are the famous Rockettes, dancing four shows a day in the Music Hall, and then—for relaxation, mind you—turning to such vigorous outdoor activities as horseback riding, bicycling, swimming and roller skating.

Although they dance for hours every day, the Rockettes are encouraged by Gene Snyder, dance director, to get all the outdoor exercise they can manage. As Mr. Snyder says, "If these girls could hold their rehearsals and stage their performances in the open air, they would soon be a troupe of young Amazons, but they do most of their work in a rehearsal hall, and the air conditioning machine can't bring in oxygen too fast for them to burn it up."

Occasionally you hear of dancers losing weight, but Mr. Snyder says it is a peculiarity of dancing that the girls lose weight when they are not working. The reason is that when a dancer is not working she loses her appetite. A keen appetite is very important in a job that calls for the expenditure of so much energy, and outdoor sports are essential to appetite building.

Dancers, or girls in any other profession, who are underweight, would do well to follow a similar outdoor program. You can't get fat when you exercise as much as the Rockettes, no matter how much you eat. As a rule they all have four meals a day, breakfast, lunch, dinner, and a light supper after the evening show.

During rehearsals, Mr. Snyder breaks the routine once in a while to have the girls do high stretching exercises, trunk and arm swinging exercises. These stretching and limbering movements offset the cramping effects of long continued tapping, which contracts the muscles.

To assure the radiant health necessary for sparkling performance, a unique system has been put into effect. There are 46 girls on the stage all the time—and 10 others on vacation. Every dancer has a week off every third week, and again every fourth week. Before they had these vacations the troupe was usually tired and run down by the height of the season, so that they were an easy prey to colds and influenza. Now, they're rarely ill. In fact, with their director's matter for boasting.

As for the kind of figure the health

Former Governor Talmadge said here yesterday he would file an answer "in about two weeks" to back salary suits of 32 former fertilizer inspectors whom he discharged shortly after he became commissioner of agriculture.

Talmadge said the answers would be filed when Judge Eschol Graham calls the appearance docket in the Telfair superior court at McRae. Talmadge estimated the suits for back salary total about $25,000.

LENTEN STUDY CLASS
TO HEAR MISS SANDERS

Mrs. J. O'H. Sanders will speak on "The Pattern of African Life" at the Lenten study class of the Episcopal Church of the Cathedral of St. Philip at 10:30 o'clock this morning at the chapter house. Mrs. J. C. Atkinson Sr. will be in charge of the devotional.

At a recent meeting of the council, Mrs. Harry L. Rees was elected president to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Stuart Gould, who had to resign because of illness in her family. Mrs. Dan C. Clarke was elected secretary.

JAPANESE RAISE CATS
FOR COATS FOR MILADY

TOKYO, Feb. 22.—(U.P.)—The Japanese government went into the cat raising business today to provide women with warm but inexpensive fur coats.

Under the direction of Dr. Seino-uke Uchida, fur expert in the department of agriculture, farmers will be encouraged to raise cats as a sideline of potato, cabbage and rice growing. The skins will be processed under government supervision for eventual manufacture of women's fur coats.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

For five long years I have heard my husband promise that next year, next year, next year we would move out from his family and set up a home of our own. But when the time comes he always has an excuse for postponing the move. Now he can afford to buy a small place. He has the money in the bank but doesn't want to spend it. I have told him I would compromise and be contented in a rented house if only we could get off to ourselves. He has been brought up to think that saving money is the most important thing in life and his mother is the prize economist. He thinks that if I had the management of a home I would be extravagant and spend all he makes. This isn't true, though I do say I wouldn't have paper napkins on the dinner table to save laundry and wear and tear on the linen nor would I use coffee grounds the second time. I have made up my mind to pull out and leave this hateful place. I could go back to my family. Please talk it over with me.

M. B.

Answer: First of all, pack your trunk and go to visit your family, but don't tell your husband why you are going and don't tell your family why you have come. Just let it be a natural visit in the ordinary course of things. When you have got away from the irritating surroundings you will be able to clear your mind, calm your emotions and think about the awful consequences of the move you are contemplating. At the end of the first week you will be so glad to see your husband and he will be so crazy to see you that you will understand what a permanent separation would mean.

Then when he comes to see you or when you go back to him you will be able to discuss the subject dispassionately without having a nervous fit. You will be able to make a proposition to him that he may accept. Patience is his friend of expense. Tell him to give you a trial; rent a home instead of buying one, name the price which he thinks will be sufficient for household expense and let you show him that you can make ends meet with the amount that he suggests.

Of course you are now irritated to the point of frenzy and every time the subject comes up you pay your respect to his mother's penurious habits and to his broken promises. Every word you say is said in impotent rage and it counts for nothing. He knows your hands are tied and he's taking advantage of that fact. So quit that policy and adopt another. A wife can get far more out of her husband by showing him than by whaling him over the head.

In the last day when all questions are answered here's one that many a wife will ask: Why, when a man can't be happy himself when his wife is unhappy, will he persist in keeping her under a roof with laws who are unbecomingly, in laws whose habits are offensive to her, in laws who rile her and irritate her and keep her in a perpetual state of fret and fury, not only with them but with her husband as well?

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I went with a girl for about a year and while I didn't tell her I loved her, she thought I did. Later I met a girl that threw me for a loop and the first time I was with her and since then I have dated the first one occasionally but she sees the difference in me. Every time I go anywhere with No. 2 there is No. 1 spying on me. It has me ticked and I don't know what to do about it. If I keep on dating her she will think she's in the race and yet I hate to quit her cold.

What shall I do?

Answer: If a girl once gets the idea in her head that a boy loves her, nothing less than a bludgeon will get it out. Girls are funny that way and pathetic, too. I suggest that you tell her she shouldn't waste any more time and thought on you as you have fallen for another. In other words, the new girl is the bludgeon, which you must use. Only this will convince No. 1 that she hasn't a fighting chance.

Miss Spencer Weds Mr. Catchings
At Covenant Church Ceremony

The Covenant Presbyterian church formed the setting for the nuptial ceremony at which Miss Frances Marion Spencer became the bride of John Holliday Catchings at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. An interested throng of friends and relatives assembled for the wedding service which was read by Dr. Herman L. Turner, pastor of the church.

Mrs. W. A. DeLamar, organist, presented a program of wedding music while the guests assembled. The interior of the church was elaborately decorated, a massing of palms and ferns against the chancel forming a background for the pedestal baskets filled with calla lilies. An arrangement of calla lilies also adorned the white marble altar, and myriads of cathedral candles burned in tall stand-ards among the foliage.

The ushers were Henry W. Ware Jr. and Julius T. Little, William G. Catron, of Nashville, Tenn., served as best man for Mr. Catchings.

The bride's attendants were Miss Ruby Cowan, maid of honor, and Allison Evans, of Lexington, Ky., small niece of the bride, and Margaret Ware, niece of the bridegroom, as flower girls.

Miss Cowan wore a floor-length gown of antique blue taffeta made princess style, with the flaring skirt extending into a brief train. The sleeves were short and puffed. An off-the-face hat of matching blue maline and a bouquet of yellow roses and yellow snapdragons completed the effective costume.

The little flower girls wore taffeta frocks similar in design to that worn by Miss Cowan, with little Miss Ware in peach color and little Miss Evans in turquoise blue. Wreaths of pastel shaded flowers bound their curls, and they carried quaint old-fashioned nosegays of garden flowers.

The bride entered the church with her father, J. Marion Spencer, who gave her in marriage. She chose for the nuptials a gown of lustrous blush satin, fashioned on empire lines and featuring long, close-fitting sleeves, the lower part of which was formed of real lace which was used on the wedding gown of the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. F. P. Catchings. Similar lace formed a graceful bertha on the bodice. The bride's tulle veil fell from a coronet of fresh orange blossoms sent from Florida for the wedding and extended to cover the satin train. Her flowers were a sheaf of calla lilies.

Mrs. J. Marion Spencer, mother of the bride, was gowned in violet lace over matching satin and a navy blue straw hat trimmed in violet-colored fabric. Her flowers were yellow roses and valley lilies. Mrs. F. P. Catchings, mother of the bridegroom, wore beige crepe, with a brown hat and brown accessories. Her flowers were tallman roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. A. G. Evans, of Lexington, Ky., aunt of the bride, was attired in green velvet worn with a coral-colored velvet hat and coral accessories. Her flowers were tallman roses and valley lilies. Mrs. Henry Hall Ware Jr., sister of the bridegroom, wore a model of black chiffon with coronation blue trim and accessories. Yellow roses and valley lilies completed her costume.

Mr. Catchings and his bride left by motor for a wedding trip to New Orleans. The bride traveled in a modish three-piece blue wool suit, worn with a navy blue straw hat with tiny face veil and navy blue accessories. Her flowers were yellow roses and valley lilies. Upon their return the couple will reside in Atlanta.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Marion Spencer entertained Sunday evening at their home on Hampton terrace for the bridal party following the wedding rehearsal.

Arthur Cain Rejects Russian Jobs,
Cash Plentiful But So Is the ColdAtlanta Hitch-Hiking Globe Trotter Reports Difficulty in Getting His Letters Through to The Constitution;
Hopes To Be Home in April.

Arthur Cain, the globe-trotting hitchhiker, whose letters from scattered points in America, Europe, Africa and the Near East have, from time to time, appeared in The Constitution, is having troubles with the mails.

According to a letter received last week by his mother, Mrs. N. O. Cain, he has written letters from several points in Siberia and another from Shanghai, China, none of which has yet reached The Constitution.

The little hitchhiker now seems likely Cain will be home again before his letters. For, he intimates, he is hoping to tread once more upon the soil of the United States sometime around April 1.

In his letter to his mother Cain wrote from Peiping, China, under date of December 26. He tells, in this communication, of his travels from Moscow to Vladivostok. Apparently his worst and most implacable foe was sub-zero weather which seems to have aroused an intense dislike of that part of the world.

For he tells of being offered various permanent jobs, ranging all the way from publicity work to an engineering foremanship, at salaries ranging as high as $100 a week. "Not enough, though," he writes, "to make this frigid section of the world attractive enough for me to want to stay here indefinitely."

In any event, he managed to secure enough money along his way to finance his journey.

I managed to pick up plenty of money along the way for transportation expenses," he relates, "so finally took the Trans-Siberian railroad from Volodga and had 50 kopeks (about 25 American money) on arrival in Vladivostok."

He refers several times to letters mailed at Volodga, Vladivostok and other points, all of which are still either en route or in the "dead letter" department, and says he expected to proceed from Peiping to Shanghai and then write another letter to The Constitution.

LABOR ORGANIZATIONS URGED BY MINISTER
The Rev. A. C. Miller, pastor of the First Christian church, East Point, and A. Steve Nance, president of the Georgia Federation of Labor, urged co-operation and organization of laboring people last night at a meeting of the Carpenters' Local No. 225, at the Labor temple.
Declaring that there are dark clouds ahead, the Rev. Miller said that turmoil will result unless there is co-operation of the working people of America. Nance, pointing to the leadership of the church, said it was labor's advisor. He asserted organization is helpful to all crafts. A. J. Harper, president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, was among others who spoke.

STAGES OF RECOVERY
Employment and earnings in many industries are above their 1929 peaks. Others do not yet show marked recovery. Several basic industries lag even below their lowest 1921 depression levels. The current relative position of an industry is a vital investment consideration.
The "F. & B. Industries Service" has been developed for the convenience of investors in comparing and analyzing various specific industries. It is available to Fenner & Beane customers and other accredited individuals through this office.

John Hancock
LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY
OF BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS
SEVENTY-FOUR YEARS OF Progress
At the beginning of its seventy-fifth year, the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company stands at the highest point in its history—in insurance in force, in assets, in surplus strength, and in ability to serve.
$3,815,663,270 in amount was the insurance in force on December 31, 1936—an increase of $222,514,748 for the year; $796,393,304 represented admitted assets—an increase of $64,892,388 (8.87%) for the year; and $75,196,417, of which $10,208,604 were added in the year, appeared in Surplus accounts. Income increased $12,724,044 to make the total $193,089,958. Dividends to be paid in 1937 were provided by apportioning the amount of $17,446,614. The sum paid to policyholders and beneficiaries in 1936 was $84,754,313 and such payments for all time amount to more than $1,237,397,300.
This is a record which entitles the Company to celebrate, with confidence in the past and hope for the future, its Seventy-fifth Anniversary. During these years of life and growth the Company has developed a due regard for responsibility and an adherence to sound principles which have formed a habit and have become a tradition. To pursue this habit and to honor this tradition is the aim of every John Hancock representative. Acknowledgment with thanks is made for their support to all members of the Company.
